Franco Shakes Up Government, Ousts His Brother-in-Law

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MADRID, Sept. 3.—Ramon Serrano Suner, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Francisco Franco and avowed admirer of the totalitarian system, was replaced as foreign minister and Falange leader today in the greatest governmental shakeup since the Spanish civil war.

He was succeeded as foreign minister by Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, long-time soldier-statesman who was foreign minister in the old Primo de Rivera dictatorship and held the same post when the United States recognized the Franco regime April 1, 1939.

Franco himself took over Serrano Suner's place as chief of the political junta of the Falange, Spain's only authorized party.

Two other important cabinet changes also were made. General Carlos-Cabanillas becoming war minister succeeding General Jose Varela, and Blas Perez, replacing Colonel Valentin Galarza as minister of interior. The position of vice secretary of the Falange was raised to cabinet rank and given to Manuel Mora Figueras, succeeding Jose Luna Melendez.

The three new ministers were sworn in this afternoon in Franco's presence. A cabinet meeting was held immediately after the brief ceremony.

General Varela, who resigned, was one of Franco's earliest co-workers, leader of the Cadiz garrison revolt in the early days of the Civil War.

His successor, elevated from chief of the general staff, was one of the column commanders in the siege of Madrid and later was high commissioner to Morocco.

The new interior minister is a law professor who has been attorney general of the supreme court.

Allies Fighting For Cause of Youth—FDR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Appealing to young people everywhere, President Roosevelt said today that the cause of the United Nations was "the cause of youth itself," that youth must fight the battles and bear the responsibilities of the peace to follow.

The Axis offers the younger generation nothing "except death," he asserted, while victory for the United Nations means "a new life that can be lived in freedom and justice and decency."

Mr. Roosevelt made these statements in a midday address to the International Student Assembly, young folks representing all the United Nations. His words, spoken directly or in translation, were carried the world around by radio. But he said, the air was "stilled" "thoroughly jammed" wherever "restless young people who are under Hitler's heel" might be listening.

Mr. Roosevelt's audience, many in the uniform of the services of the United States, came to the White House to listen. Informally, some sat on the floor of the crowded chamber in which he spoke, and

HOLDS HOPE FOR YOUTHS—In a remarkable address to youths throughout the world, President Roosevelt told the International Student Assembly in Washington, "The Axis nations have nothing to offer youth but death." The President declared that "young, free men and women of the United Nations . . . will mold the shape of the new world."

Russian Defenses Are Cracked North, South of Stalingrad

The battle for the Middle East neared a new crisis last night as German tanks forced new Russian withdrawals north and south of vital Stalingrad, but were backed up in the Egyptian desert by the shock of unprecedented Allied air action and British artillery.

There was no relief in the critical situation of the armies of the Volga and the Caucasus. Besides the gains in the Stalingrad sector, the Germans were edging forward above Novorossisk with the evident intention of by-passing the Caucasus peaks on the west and gaining the Middle Eastern land bridge via the curving coast.

Main battle forces had not been engaged in the Egyptian struggle, but a vise was being tightened from three sides on German armored columns.

British Retake Axis Positions

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Under constant bombardment of British artillery, German tank columns fell back today from part of their newly won positions in the western desert and British tanks and armored cars immediately retook the abandoned strongholds.

Both at the front and in the rear, the Axis has been undergoing American and British air attacks on a scale unprecedented in the western desert, plus the continuous cannonading.

British tanks in taking advantage of the German withdrawal thus tightened their hold on German armored columns which now are gripped in a tightening vise moving in from three sides.

Nine Tanks Abandoned.

Reports from the battlefield said the Germans left nine derelict tanks. Two were unusable, six were blown up by British engineers, one was towed in for possible use by the British.

Several minor clashes were reported on the southern sector of the front but the Alamein area, at the top of the battlefield, remained quiet.

The major battle for the Nile still is to come. The Allied air campaign continued with undiminished vigor. Reports from the field said 14 enemy planes were shot down yesterday to a loss of 10 Allied planes.

U. S. Bombers Attack.

United States and British headquarters announced that medium bombers of the U. S. Air Forces successfully attacked the enemy in the daylight battle yesterday, destroying and damaging enemy vehicles.

The British described the bomber action as "of record" proportions and said satisfactory results were reported.

This aerial action, plus the fury of the artillery fire which broke out every time the Africa corps showed its head, appeared to have forced Marshal Erwin Rommel into a role of caution.

British and dominion units harassed and damaged his concentrations in the Himeimat-Ruweisat sector on the southern front, where German armored columns had penetrated eight miles, but thus far the major forces of the British Eighth Army and the Axis armies have not clashed.

(London observers interpreted the lull as momentary but nevertheless costly to the enemy in armor and transport vehicles.)

United States heavy bombers joined in the fray yesterday with an attack beside the British on Axis port and dock facilities in the Tobruk area, causing explosions and fires. All planes returned safely.

More Warm Weather In Store for Atlanta

Weatherman Glen Jefferson last night predicted more warm weather for Atlanta today with some scattered showers or thunderstorms expected in the afternoon.

Yesterday's low reading was 65, but the mercury registered a high of 86, the hottest since Sunday.

Reds Retreat To New Lines

MOSCOW, Friday, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Massed German tanks and infantrymen have cracked the previously impenetrable Russian line northwest of Stalingrad and forced the Soviets to retreat there, while other German forces continued to edge closer to Stalingrad from the southwest, the Russians reported today.

A Russian retreat northwest of Novorossisk, threatened Black sea fleet base, also was acknowledged officially by the Soviets in their midnight communique.

The break in the Russian lines above Stalingrad represented the first gain for the Germans there in some time. The Russians had stiffened after being folded back to the approaches of the Volga city.

Peril Grows Hourly.

The peril to the key Volga city thus increased by the hour as the Germans closed in steadily with both arms of a strong pincer movement.

The midnight communique said the first attack by German tanks and infantry was hurled back by Soviet artillery and antitank rifle fire, leaving nine disabled and burned German tanks and about 400 dead on the field.

Two hours later the enemy resumed attacks on our positions and pressed our units back," the communique said.

The extent of the German gain was not disclosed but it is known that the battle in that area is being fought on the northwest approaches to the city.

Weak Spots Sought.

In a strong bid for victory the Germans yesterday threw masses of planes, tanks and troops against Stalingrad from the southwest in a fluid attack designed to probe for weak spots in the line.

These German forces, it was reported earlier, forced the Red Army to retreat to new positions and dropped a new wedge in the Russian defenses.

The midnight communique said the Soviets in that area beat off three enemy tank attacks yesterday in their new lines, fighting all day against the enemy tanks and infantry. It did not mention the report of a further gain for the Germans.

The battle below Stalingrad has not yet reached the southwest approaches of the city, it was said.

The situation of Novorossisk became more critical.

Wedge in Defense Zone.

The Germans drove a wedge into the Russian defenses in the vicinity of one populated large place after bombing and artillery fire.

German tanks and motorized infantry followed up the storm of steel and wedged into the defense zone.

The Russians said all other attacks in that northwest Caucasus area were beaten off.

Deep in the Caucasus, the communique said, there was violent fighting for river crossings in the Mordok area.

In the Kletskeya area northwest of Stalingrad, where the Germans and their Axis allies have been pressing the Russians, the communique said several enemy counterattacks were beaten off.

But the general position on the

MITCHEL FIELD OFFICER LOSES JOB—A press release purporting to expose ground markers laid out by saboteurs and discovered by fliers had its repercussions yesterday when Major Lynn Farnol, public relations officer for the First Air Ground Support Command, was relieved of his duties at Mitchel Field, N. ## Britain Meets U-Boat Threat In Shipyards

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, disclosed today that Britain's shipyards had practically made good the royal navy's admittedly heavy losses in warships and that Nazi submarine losses had risen to the highest rate of the entire war in the last two months.

In one or two warship categories new construction exceeded losses and at the same time "what is really a new fleet" of corvettes and torpedo and gunboats, 85 destroyers, 39 submarines, 14 armed merchant cruisers and others including such small but valuable craft as trawlers and corvettes.

Alexander's statement recalled the publication in July of unofficial reports that 485 warships were then on duty with the British navy which were not in service at the outbreak of war and, with allowance for sinkings, at least 500 warships must have been delivered by shipyards in about 30 months.

He did not say in what categories Britain now has more tonnage than when the war began.

To date the admiralty has announced the loss of 423 warships, among which were three battle-ships, two battle cruisers, five aircraft carriers, 24 cruisers, 85 destroyers, 39 submarines, 14 armed merchant cruisers and others including such small but valuable craft as trawlers and corvettes.

Alexander's statement recalled the publication in July of unofficial reports that 485 warships were then on duty with the British navy which were not in service at the outbreak of war and, with allowance for sinkings, at least 500 warships must have been delivered by shipyards in about 30 months.

GSCW Alumnae Urged To Vote

The executive committee of the National Alumnae Association of the Georgia State College for Women today issued the following statement to the press:

"No individual or group has been authorized to speak for the alumnae of the Georgia State College for Women regarding the coming state elections. In response to numerous letters and queries about the matter, the governing board of the association takes this means of clearing up any existing misunderstanding.

"The committee earnestly urges every G. S. C. W. alumna in Georgia to go to the polls on September 9 and vote her convictions. The crash occurred about midnight Wednesday. The entire crew of three officers and three enlisted men were killed.

Tokyo Raider Killed in Crash

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Six Barksdale field fliers, including First Lieutenant Kenneth E. Reddy, who was co-pilot on the famous Tokyo raid with Brigadier General Jimmy Doolittle last April, were killed last night when a Barksdale field B26 twin-motored bomber crashed and burned in a hilly, wooded section seven miles from Little Rock, Ark.

The crash occurred about midnight Wednesday. The entire crew of three officers and three enlisted men were killed.

OFFICER RELIEVED—Colonel Dache M. Reeves, commanding officer of the First Air Ground Support Command, has been relieved of his duties along with Major Lynn Farnol, it was announced yesterday.

Two Officers Lose Jobs Over 'Marker' Story

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Colonel Dache M. Reeves, commanding officer of the first air ground support command, has been relieved of his duties along with Major Lynn Farnol, public relations officer for the same command, it was announced today by the office of Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum, commander of the Eastern Defense Command and First Army.

The relief of the officers from their air force duties followed closely upon a press release in August purporting to expose ground markers laid out by saboteurs and allegedly discovered by fliers under Reeves' command.

Major Farnol, former movie publicity agent, released the story. On August 10 the War Department issued a memorandum saying the story "may be untrue" and ordered General Drum to investigate.

Midwest Fuel Rationing Seen As Possibility

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Spread of oil rationing to some localities of the midwest and southwest was "envisioned as a possibility" today by Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes.

He indicated this might come as a result of the government's action in requisitioning from those areas, for service to the east, all gasoline-carrying rail tank cars not used for essential agricultural, industrial, health and safety purposes.

Ickes told a press conference it was too early to tell what the effect would be, but added:

"It may develop scarcities in some areas. If so, it may be necessary to ration there, or undertake some other form of consumption curtailment. The effects (of withdrawing the tank cars) should become evident at once, and we probably can tell within a month what measures, if any, will be necessary out there."

"We might say now that curtailment in additional areas is envisioned as a possibility."

Ickes says he expects the requisition to add 5,000 cars to the 68,000 already in the eastward service.

To a question on the probable effects of a reduction in the amount of gasoline moving into eastern consumption, as suggested this week by a petroleum industry economics committee, the co-ordinator said this possibly might result in a reduction in the unit value of the east's gasoline ration coupons, now four gallons.

However, he added that he wanted to be sure of the facts before making a definite statement.

The oil industry committee said it would be necessary to reduce eastern gasoline consumption from 511,000 barrels daily, the average from July 22 to August 22, to 435,000 barrels daily for the next seven months, to make available more transportation facilities for fuel oil movement.

Three More State Troopers Resign

Three more State Highway Patrol members resigned yesterday, making seven who have quit their jobs in the past four days as a protest against collections for Talmadge's campaign funds.

Corporal Ray Pope, of Americus; Trooper Theron Aldridge and Trooper C. Eugene Tucker, of Macon, resigned.

Trooper Tucker charged in an affidavit that Johnny Nahara, of Douglas, attempted to make him change a drunken driving charge and that later he was driven 240 miles from Thomasville to Atlanta to receive a transfer order.

Trooper Aldridge, in an affidavit, stated that his district commanding officer had told him four or five weeks ago that he would be expected to contribute half of a month's salary, or about $50.

"I have a family to support," Aldridge's affidavit stated, "and I felt that as long as I was doing my duty to the state that I should not be compelled to give up part of my salary. In addition, I knew that this demand was a violation of the law which set up the state patrol.

"Since the department was torn with politics and its usefulness destroyed, and further since I knew that such members of the patrol who would not or could not contribute would be fired after the election, as a matter of self-respect I decided to resign immediately, which I have done."

Trooper Aldridge said he joined the patrol 15 months ago. Corporal Pope, who became a member of the patrol in 1939, stated in a copy of his resignation which he said was turned in to John E. Goodwin, commissioner of the Department of Public Safety, that he had watched the patrol become

Enemy Units Tracked Down On Solomons

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Navy disclosed tonight that a few "small detachments" of Japanese troops had landed on islands of the southeastern Solomon group but that the Marines who wrested that area from the enemy several weeks ago were hunting down these groups.

The communique reporting this action followed by a few hours an announcement that United submarines in the western Pacific elsewhere than in the Solomon theater had sunk five more enemy ships, including a Japanese light cruiser, and damaged three others. This report brought the total of Japanese ships sunk or damaged by American submarines since December 7 to 99.

The Japanese were matching their amphibious operations in the Solomon area with what the Navy called "periodic attack" by aircraft.

One such attack occurred yesterday, the Navy said, when 18 enemy bombers, accompanied by fighters, raided American installations at Guadalcanal. The raid cost the enemy three bombers and five fighters and the damage to American positions was "minor," the Navy said.

The enemy's air raids in the

Powerful Economic Chief Seen as New Blow at Inflation

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was reported authoritatively today to have prepared a new attack on inflation with a powerful overall economic co-ordinator empowered to stabilize wages and prices, including those of farm products.

The plan, according to creditable but unquotable informants, called for appointment of an individual with whom the President would share his vast emergency powers so that Mr. Roosevelt could devote more time to the conduct of the war itself. The appointee, tentatively dubbed Mr. X, would have a superboard of advisors on which the government, business, labor and agriculture would have representation.

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, presidential adviser, has been working on the plan for weeks, consulting daily with government officials and spokesmen for industry, organized labor and the farmers. Frequent changes have been made and there was no assurance the draft on the President's desk was final. Responsible sources said, however, it was probable that this was the plan which Mr. Roosevelt would lay before Congress on Monday and before the nation in a radio address that night.

It was understood the plan did not contemplate abolition of the War Labor Board but, rather, the board's control would be extended to wage increases voluntarily granted by employers.

First among the President's callers were Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and heads of major farm organizations. They were Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation; H. E. Babcock of the National Council of Farmer-Co-operators; Albert S. Goss, of the National Grange, and James P. Patton of the National Farmers Union.

They were followed by William

O'Neal would not discuss details, but assented to a suggestion that the President had left little doubt that farm prices would be stabilized.

"We talked over the whole stabilization program," O'Neal said. Green, questioned whether there were any points of disagreement, replied: "We did not develop that. We went over it and we are attempting to analyze it and consider it."

Asked whether labor would go along with the program, Murray would not comment and Green remarked, "labor had always gone along pretty well."

Franco Alters His Cabinet

ice with the blue division (Spanish force fighting Russia). Only last April Suner declared that Generalissimo Franco said that if Germany were unable to hold "the tremendous Russian danger," Spain would aid the Reich, "not with 15,000 but 1,000,000 men."

Many "Frozen in Russia." This statement was made in an interview with a Danish newspaperman and published in the Madrid press. The then foreign minister admitted however, that "the lives of many of our comrades that Spain needed for her resurrection remain frozen in Russia."

Suner hailed the entry into power of pro-Axis Pierre Laval at Vichy by saying that Laval was "a good Frenchman," and also was pleased by Argentina and Chile "remaining outside the circle of states controlled by Russia." That was his way of commenting on the refusal of those two South American nations to break diplomatic relations with the Axis.

The bare announcement of the Spanish cabinet changes, when clothed with the known inclinations of the protagonists and cast against the background of recent events and reports, suggests that the United Nations may have won a diplomatic victory in keeping Spain from going actively and openly to the Axis side in the war.

The opportunistic Serrano Suner, a slim, intense, gray-haired man of 40, is outspokenly pro-Nazi and pro-Fascist. An unknown attorney before the Spanish Civil War, he climbed rapidly by capitalizing on his connection with Franco until he has long been considered the No. 2 man in Spain, second only to El Caudillo Franco—the chief.

Serrano Suner's loss simultaneously both of his foreign ministry portfolio and his powerful position in control of the Falange, indicated, on the surface at least, that the canny Franco might have chosen to cast off his ambitious brother-in-law in order to keep Spain on her uneasy perch of non-belligerency.

Monarchist Threat. Other possibilities not to be overlooked include that of maneuver for restoration of a Spanish monarchy, a mere gesture to conciliate domestic unrest, and a strengthening of the share in government of Franco's trusted army friends in expectation of future need.

These recent developments, however, imply a defeat for the Axis. On August 15 Serrano Suner, who frequently has expressed admiration for the Nazi system and who has been a visitor to Germany and Italy on several occasions, wrote for a Hitler youth publication that a "liberated Spain" would have been on the Axis side in the present war if it had started a few years later, a "that old republican Spain would have been on the United Nations side if the war had started a few years sooner."

On the same day a prominent Republican Spanish refugee in Mexico, Diego Martinez Marrio, once president of the Republican legislature, predicted that Spain soon would enter the war as an active Axis ally.

Franco Hedged. Serrano Suner already had injected a Spanish volunteer division into the war against Russia with a declaration that extermination of Russia was necessary. Generalissimo Franco, however, hedged in a speech August 20 at Vigo, warning Spaniards to be prepared for an industrial, moral and military struggle, but saying, "This does not mean we want war."

Last Friday President Roosevelt proposed that the Americas help Spain repair the civil war damage to her cultural treasures and encourage post-war tourist travel by repairing the railroads and other means. This was predicated on the assumption that Spain remain nonbelligerent, but the President said in reply to a question that the plan was not meant to influence Spain.

United States Ambassador Carlton Hayes conferred with Serrano Suner on Saturday on an undisclosed subject. Next day Madrid dispatches said the Roosevelt proposal had not yet been published in Spain but was "expected to be well received."

The sequence of events indicated that Serrano Suner, a hard-driving man troubled with a stomach ailment and unpopular with the masses of the people, had failed to get Franco to go all the way out for the Axis.

Despite his close associations with Franco (he is married to the sister of Franco's wife), he is regarded by some Spaniards as being more of an advocate of the Axis than of his own country's interests.

His successor, General Gomez Jordana, is a Spanish Nationalist but a conservative and a real Spaniard, neither Nazi nor Anglophile. He has been prominent in government affairs since 1915, when he was resident-general of Morocco, but had to flee to Gibraltar in 1931 when the Spanish republic was established.

Berlin Mentions Hayes. Incidentally, in its frequent broadcasts on the Spanish situation Thursday the German radio said that U. S. Ambassador Hayes had flown to Gibraltar "to participate in an important discussion to be held there." No other source confirmed the report.

The British reaction was that the changes in general obviously strengthened Franco's hand, and that while the affair was primarily internal, it would be watched keenly by the British foreign office.

Spanish circles in Argentina were more emphatic, saying the move should carry Franco and his government farther from the Axis and that the influence of the Falange party was definitely reduced.

Store Sales Drop 15 Per Cent Here

Department stores sales in Atlanta for the week ending August 29 were 15 per cent lower than in the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Board announced in Washington last night.

Commenting on a national decrease of 14 per cent, the board said the sharp drop was largely due to the fact last year there was a wave of buying in anticipation of consumer credit restrictions which went into effect September 1, 1941.

Dallas, Texas, showed a decline of 20 per cent, Boston was off 17; New York, 15; Cleveland, 16; Chicago, 14, and San Francisco, 15.

Sedition Charged To Idaho Weekly

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(P)—Postmaster General Walker charged today "the Boise Valley Herald," a weekly newspaper published at Middleton, Idaho, had printed matter held by the Post Office and Justice Departments to be seditious, and ordered the publishers to show cause September 7 why their second-class mail privilege should not be revoked.

Walker said the paper was published by A. Cornell and I. W. Cornell. He ordered the postmaster at Middleton not to accept any copies of the Herald for mail until the department in Washington had ruled on their mailability.

MANACLE ORDER RESCINDED. BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 3.—(P)—The German high command cancelled today an order for the manacling of British prisoners taken at Dieppe after the British broadcast a denial that they had tied the hands of German captives during the attack on the French port.

Dixie Delivery Of Scrap Metal Disappointing

Steel Centers Receive Only 10 Per Cent of Southeast Quota.

With only 10 per cent of the southeast's industrial quota of scrap metal delivered to the nation's steel centers September 1, a drive to organize industrial salvage committees in 60 southeastern cities was announced yesterday by Herbert B. Hayes, regional WPB industrial salvage chief.

WPB called for 625,000 tons of scrap metal from industrial firms in the region during July, Hayes pointed out, declaring "results so far have been discouraging and many open hearth furnaces have been forced to close down for lack of scrap metal."

Hayes said industrial salvage managers in each plant would be appointed under the direction of local committees as in areas of Atlanta, Macon, Columbus and Savannah.

2 Parachutists Are Lost at Fort Benning

Jumpers Feared Drowned; 'Chutes Are Found on Chattahoochee.

Two parachutists are believed to have drowned in the Chattahoochee river near Fort Benning while on routine practice jumps Tuesday night, the Fort Benning public relations office announced last night.

They are Private Walter Wilkins Jr., of Lookout, Cal., and Private Clifford Oliver, of Dalles, Oregon.

The parachutes of both men were found floating in the river near Benning, the announcement said, and the river is being dragged for their bodies.

Some hope is held that the two might have freed themselves from the chutes and escaped in the woods, officers said.

Chip Robert Jr. Presents Tech With Deed To Property

By AL SHARP.

Lawrence Wood (Chip) Robert Jr. yesterday presented Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, with a deed to property for a freshman reception center and dormitory.

Retail Stores To Close Here On Labor Day

Majority of Union Workers, However, Will Continue on Jobs.

Atlanta retail merchants will close their stores Monday for Labor Day, but most of labor, including the union workers at the Atlantic Steel plant, will go right on working, it was announced yesterday.

L. L. Austin, executive secretary of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, reported all members of that organization, with the exception of drugstores, will take the holiday.

But out at the Atlantic Steel Company, where work on vital important defense material is going on, the union has voted to work through Labor Day without even charging time and one-half time.

"The best way the workers can celebrate Labor Day is to keep on the job and keep producing the materials so vitally needed," wrote R. E. Starnes, field representative of the United Steelworkers of America, which is affiliated with the CIO.

Hogansville Citizens Collect Much Scrap

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. HOGANSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 3.—Citizens of Hogansville are proud of record made in the salvage campaign just closed and feel that their record has not been equaled by any other city of 4,000 population.

Macon Hunt, chairman of the Hogansville salvage committee, reports a total of 5,220 pounds of tin, 85,836 pounds of scrap iron, and 2,450 pounds of rubber were collected during the drive. Total proceeds from the sale of this scrap material was $466, and $91 of this amount was donated to the Boy Scouts fund.

Another record was made Tuesday at the livestock sale at the Hogansville stock yards when the total receipts amounted to $8,700, which was $2,000 more than any previous sale, officials of the sale reported.

Robert, head of the famous firm of architects and engineers, was celebrating his birthday anniversary, as well as the anniversary of the day, 39 years ago, that he first stood on the steps of the administration building at Tech.

But he was also celebrating realization of a life-long ambition to do something for bewildered freshmen. And that's the story behind the story.

Came to Tech.

The day Robert came to Tech he was 15 years of age. He was there for a sub-freshman course before going on to Cornell.

Robert waited 40 minutes to see Captain Lyman Hall, president of Tech at the time. When he did see him, the West Pointer's cold military manner left Robert bewildered.

The president didn't seem glad to see him, Robert recalled yesterday. In fact, he informed Robert that there was no more dormitory space left. Robert went out on the steps and talked to his only friend of the moment—a Negro hack driver who had delivered him to Tech.

"Come on, boy," the driver said. "I ain't got nothing to do. We'll find us a bo'din' house."

Hunts 'Bo'din' Place.

They searched Atlanta. Late that afternoon they found a place and Robert was all set. You know the rest. Robert decided to stay at Tech. He remained for a post-graduate course after finishing a brilliant career in athletics as well as studies.

"Ever since that day," Robert said during the short ceremony yesterday morning, "I've wanted to present Tech with a start on a reception center and dormitory for freshmen—like Harvard's famous Harkness Hall. I want it to be a memorial to the boys Tech is sending into the armed forces, too."

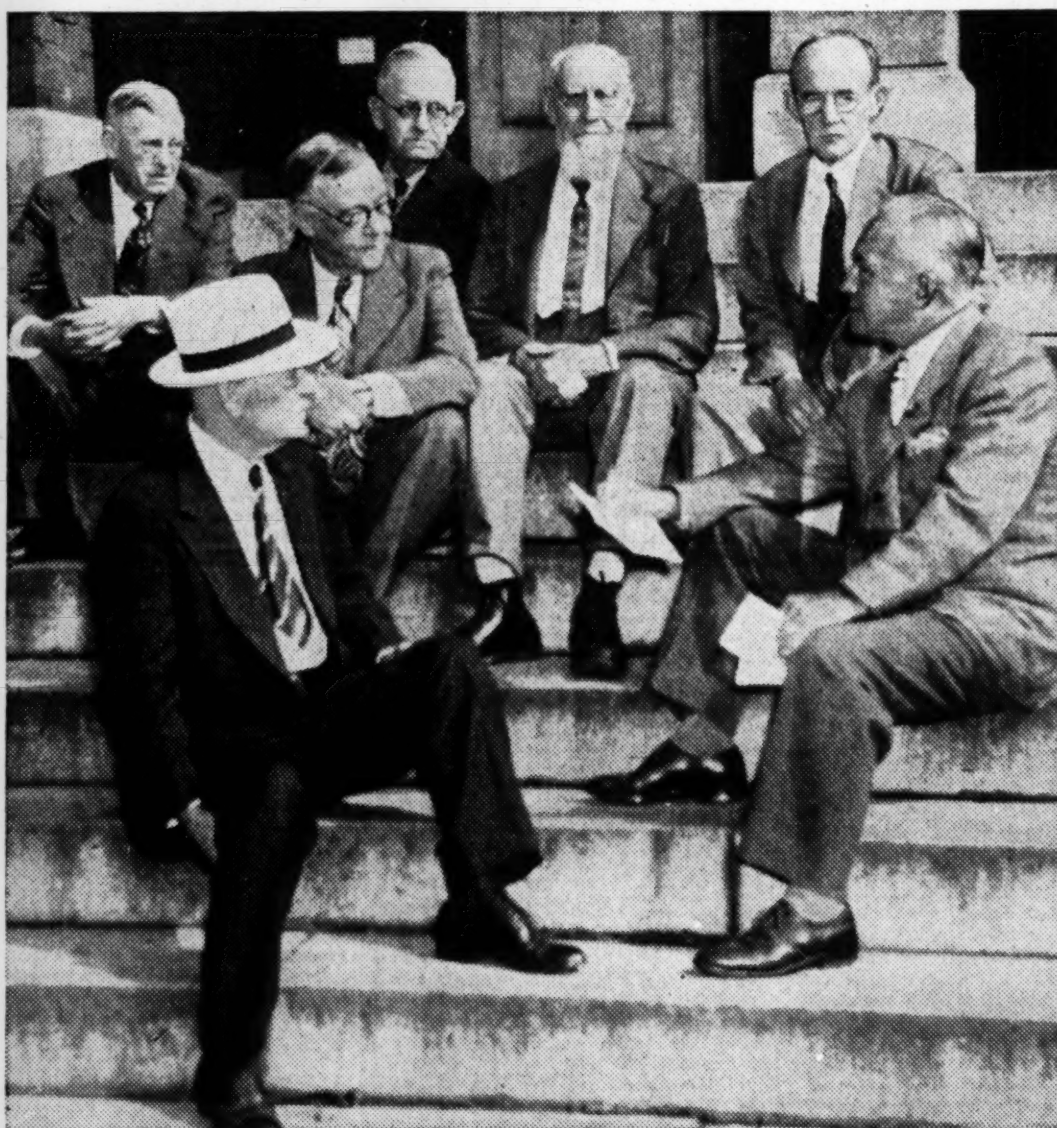

The property which Robert acquired for the project is between Third and Fourth streets and Techwood and Williams in the heart of the campus.

Dr. Brittain, smiling happily over the gift, said "maybe it's a pretty good idea that a West Pointer was president then."

"You know it's a funny thing," Robert added. "When I stood right here on the steps where I am now 39 years ago, it was Thursday and it was my birthday."

"I really felt bad that day. I'll never forget it. That's why I've wanted to do this for so long. The obvious thing to do would have been to give something for athletics. But I've had this dormitory and reception center in mind for a long time. It's easy to see why."

MUCH SALVAGE.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 3.—(P) Over 41,000,000 pounds of scrap iron and steel have been salvaged in the past seven months by the purchasing, mechanical and maintenance of way departments of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, officials said. The shipments were valued at more than $500,000.

whom Robert and two other members of a committee selected 20 years ago to be president at Tech, for the presentation of the deed were the five professors who were at Tech when Robert entered in 1903.

Morro Castle Hero Paroled

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 3.—(P) George W. Rogers, radio operator-hero of the Morro Castle disaster, was among 31 first offenders granted paroles today by the New Jersey state court of pardons on condition they enter one of the nation's armed services.

Rogers, 45, was convicted in 1938 of attempting to kill a superior in the Bayonne police department with a home-made bomb. He was sentenced to serve from 12 to 20 years.

When the New Jersey-Havana luxury liner Morro Castle burned off the New Jersey coast on September 8, 1934, with a heavy loss of life, Rogers, chief radio operator stuck to his post and won a hero's acclaim. A short time afterwards he joined the police force as a patrolman.

Baptist Women To Meet in Macon

MACON, Ga., Sept. 3.—(P)—Business women of the Baptist churches of Georgia will meet here this weekend, taking advantage of the holiday to get away from their work-a-day jobs.

The conference will be the second of the kind ever held by the business women, and will be devoted largely to plans for promoting business women's circles in local missionary club organizations.

The meeting starts Friday, and will continue through Labor Day, with meetings being held at Mary Erin Porter Hall, of Mercer University.

Mrs. Peter Kittles, of Sylvester, president of the Georgia Baptist Union; Mrs. George Fiske, of Macon, and Mrs. J. C. Lanier, of West Point, will be among the leaders.

Leslie Steele Indorses Wells For Congress

Record Is Constructive, Says Son of Ramspeck's Predecessor.

Leslie Steele, son of the late Leslie J. Steele Sr., predecessor of Robert Ramspeck as congressman for the fifth district, yesterday announced his support of Jere Wells for representative to congress from the fifth district.

"He is well versed in many phases of state and national legislation and has had considerable experience in legislative procedure," said Steele. "The fifth district would be fortunate in selecting a man with such unusually fine qualifications to represent us in Washington at this critical time."

"Mr. Wells' record is constructive in every detail and opposes selfish and unfair legislation," he continued. "In congress, I am sure he will work unselfishly for all the people of his district and put their interests above personal glory or private gain."

Truck Driver Injured As Trailer Overturns

Dewey Mac Thompson, driver of a truck and trailer, was injured yesterday when the trailer, loaded with 900 baskets of apples, overturned on the Bankhead highway near the Chattahoochee river. The truck and apples were owned by Lowry Brothers, of Hendersonville, N. C.

Thompson was treated at Grady hospital.

Willkie Offers Self As Proof of U. S. Harmony in War

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie presented himself today as living proof that "there is no division in America on the question of winning this war and the establishment of a just peace after the war."

After a visit with United States forces near Cairo, in which he told soldiers to "Give 'em hell," Willkie held a press conference in the luxurious lobby of the U. S. Middle East military headquarters.

He described himself as "a special representative of President Roosevelt" and asserted one of his major reasons for being in the Middle East and for going from here to Russia and China was to show the leaders of the various nations that he, "the man who opposed President Roosevelt (in the 1940 presidential campaign)," was certain that victory for the United Nations was inevitable.

"The days of Germany's glory are over," Willkie added.

"If I'm here as President Roosevelt's representative it is because 130,000,000 Americans are all behind the President to beat the Germans."

Willkie, as he had done in talking with soldiers earlier today, stressed at the press conference his opinion that the Middle East is "one of the most vital and important theaters of war."

He said he wanted all Americans to be aware of that fact and added "I wish the censors would let up on you boys more."

He remarked that he hoped censors were present. They were.

Of the war in the desert, Willkie emphasized that he did not consider himself a military expert but that he believed Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel was "out on the end of a limb."

U. S. Enters Into Mutual Help Agreements With Four Nations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The United States today concluded agreements with four of the United Nations designed to formalize the arrangements for reciprocal aid against the enemy.

The agreements involve Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Fighting France, and provide that those nations shall supply war materials and services to the United States on the same terms as this country gives lend-lease assistance to them.

Under this plan, for example, Australia would be expected to supply certain food to American troops in that nation, while Great Britain might supply our men in the Isles with fighting equipment, leaving our cargo ships free to fill their holds with food for England.

The Office of War Information said that a variety of supplies already had been distributed to American fighting forces abroad, and "covers a range as wide as the requirements and geography of global war."

British barrage balloons have been made available for our west coast and anti-aircraft guns for the east coast. British corvettes are being used for anti-submarine work, and American fighting forces have obtained specifications of new British weapons of attack and defense, all without money exchange, the OWI said.

American troops also are moving about on British ships, using British guns and ammunition, eating Australian and New Zealand food and wearing Australian-made clothing. They are also using materials and labor of Fighting France in New Caledonia and Equatorial Africa.

The OWI estimated total British empire cash purchases in the United States since September, 1939, at $7,000,000,000, more than lend-lease deliveries so far.

The British, Australian and New Zealand agreements were signed in Washington, while the one with Fighting France was signed in London.

All British warships on convoy service now carry 25 suits of clothes for men rescued at sea.

J. W. Carlson Bound Over to Federal Jury

Charged With Falsely Representing Self as Government Official.

Jarrell W. Carlson, of Tucker, yesterday was bound over to a federal grand jury by United States Commissioner David J. Meyerhardt on charges of representing himself to be a government official, with intent to defraud.

Specific charges, brought by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said he represented himself to be a buyer of timber for the government and in that guise demanded that William O. Burns, also of Tucker, pay him a commission on timber which Burns might subsequently sell to the government. In his testimony Burns said Carlson had asked him to sign a contract calling for payment of a commission of 15 per cent on lumber sold the government and he questioned this stipulation because he didn't know whether it was legal to pay commission to a man who was paid a salary by the government to secure timber. He said that Carlson at this point failed to deny official connection with the government. He testified that he refused to sign the contract.

Witnesses included D. H. Wall, of the War Production Board's woodworking section; Virlyn Booth, former state manager for the WPB, and neighbors of Carlson who testified the defendant had a reputation in the community for being able to secure jobs for laborers with contractors holding government contracts, and that because of this reputation it was supposed he had some connection with the government. Surprise move in the hearing came when Assistant United States Attorney James Manning asked bond be raised from $300 to $1,500, based on a voluminous file presented by a representative of the FBI containing a variety of charges ranging from breach of peace to embezzlement and fraud.

Carlson denied most of the offenses mentioned, claiming mistaken identity, but admitted he had been arrested for fighting and that he had served a five-year term at the Atlanta federal penitentiary on a bootleg charge. Bond was placed at $500.

45 Killed, 150 Wounded In Indian Disorders

A Bengal government communiqué said 29 prisoners and a warder were killed and more than 136, including some members of the prison staff, were injured in a disturbance at the Dacca jail last Monday during a mutiny by prisoners.

Enemy Units Tracked Down On Solomons

Guadalcanal-Tulagi area were not preventing the steady reinforcement and strengthening of the positions seized by the Marines, the Navy said.

American planes operating from the Guadalcanal base attacked Japanese ships engaged in the landing operations. While these land-based planes scored several hits on the ships, the Navy said the extent of damage was not known.

Fortress Bombs Vessel. Meanwhile, a Flying Fortress, prowling above waters of the coast of Santa Isabel island, spotted an enemy tanker or seaplane tender. The ship was bombed and left burning.

Of the three damaged, a communication reported, one medium-sized cargo ship probably sank. The other two were large tankers.

These sinkings, not related to operations in the Solomon Islands and not previously reported by the Navy, brought to 99 the total of enemy ships announced as sunk or damaged by United States submarine action since December 7. In addition to the light cruiser, the ships reported sunk were two small freighters, one medium-sized tanker, and one small steamer. The total of 99 vessels listed as sunk or damaged by American submarines since the start of the war includes 65 sunk, 17 probably sunk and 17 damaged.

Upper Solomons Bombed by Allies.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Friday, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Allied planes have bombed Buka, Kieta and Faisi in the Upper Solomon Islands, damaging two Japanese flying boats, and also attacked the enemy's New Guinea bases at Salamaua and Kooka, a communication announced today. Guerrilla fighting still rages at Milne bay in southeastern New Guinea, where Allied ground troops are mopping up remnants of an attempted enemy invasion, it added.

Leaves Given City Police for U. S. Services

Other Absences Disallowed Because of Man Shortage.

Leaves of absence to enter the armed services were granted three members of the city police department last night at a routine meeting of the police committee of city council, held at police headquarters.

The men were M. M. Coppenberger, Dewey Sheriff and J. D. Muse.

Other actions taken by the committee included denial of an appeal by Supernumerary Emery Waldrip, special officer for a downtown department store, for additional leave, Chief Hornsby explaining there could be no further leaves granted except those of a military nature, due to shortage of men; acceptance of the resignation of Supernumerary L. G. Vaughn; permission for auxiliary police to sponsor a benefit show at the municipal auditorium, to buy uniforms for the organization; an audit of the Christmas Charity Club, and adoption of a property ordinance to sell old tires and tubes, this matter being referred to council for approval.

The committee also recommended $150 be paid Detective J. L. Moseley for injuries suffered last April in a motorcycle accident in performance of duty, the recommendation to be submitted to council's finance committee.

Labor and Nelson Get Together

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Labor, which has asked for membership on the War Production Board itself, tonight voiced "perfect satisfaction" with Chairman Donald M. Nelson's assurance that he would consider labor nominations for two vice chairmanships in WPB.

This decision and other measures to give labor men a greater voice in the management of war production were announced by Nelson at a press conference after a meeting with Presidents William Green of AFL and Philip Murray of CIO, and six other labor officials.

A score of union leaders last week told Nelson that WPB's approach to conversion, curtailment and production policies was "unbalanced and one-sided" because the top administrative posts were held by industrialists.

Nelson made it clear he had not finally decided whether any of the names to be submitted by labor actually would get WPB vice chairmanships—a title now held only by William L. Batt and James S. Knowlson—but gave the impression the names of "some of labor's best men" would get favorable consideration for administrative jobs.

He specified, however, that any man so chosen would have to drop his union job and go on the government pay roll.

Nelson said the meeting was "very satisfactory." Murray called it "an entirely satisfactory conference," out of which should grow a closer working alliance with the government and with industry "than labor ever has had before."

Green, stating that perfect understanding was reached, added: "All points of difference, if there were any, have been adjusted."

Two other major decisions were reached. The first was to place a current campaign for increased war production, which now has enrolled 1,300 plants over the country, under control of a five-man committee composed of an impartial chairman, two management spokesmen and two labor men, one each from the AFL and CIO.

The drive now is directed by WPB's information division. Recently there has been agitation for placing it under WPB's labor production division in order to give labor a larger voice in its operation. The five-man committee appeared to be a compromise decision.

The other principal concession won by labor was Nelson's decision to give the labor representatives a bigger voice in each of WPB's 40 industry branches, wherein are developed programs for curtailment, expansion, and concentration of production in every line of manufacture.

Before You Vote---

COMPARE THE RECORDS

The high office of Judge of the Civil Court of Fulton County demands sound legal knowledge, dignity, honesty, impartiality and freedom from political prejudices and entanglement.

J. WILSON PARKER

J. Wilson PARKER

possesses ALL these traits

For 20 years a practicing attorney.

For nine (9) years Judge of the City Court of Fairburn.

Re-elected each time by overwhelming majorities.

Never defeated.

Record as Judge characterized by fairness, ability and industry.

The most accurate index of a man's legal and judicial capacities is the opinion of the lawyers with whom he comes in daily contact and who are in the best possible position to appraise his qualifications.

The lawyers of Atlanta, who have practiced with him for 20 years, recently voted in a secret poll, conducted by the Atlanta Bar Association, that he was fully qualified to serve as Judge of the Civil Court and that he was better qualified for the position than the present judge, whom he opposes. The vote was nearly three to one.

WHAT ABOUT THE RECORD OF HIS OPPONENT?

Judge Hathcock has held judicial office more than a quarter of a century.

The lawyers who have practiced in his court and who know his ability better than any other group have declared by a vote of three-to-one that he is less qualified for judicial office than Judge Parker, who opposes him.

He is the first incumbent who has ever received such an overwhelmingly unfavorable vote at the hands of the lawyers.

MORE FACTS FOR CONSIDERATION BY THE VOTERS

For 22 years of the period he has held judicial office he did so by appointment and without any vote of the people.

His first appointment was by a Judge in whose office he had been employed.

In 1940, while holding on to his present judgeship and salary, he sought election to the Superior Court of Fulton County.

By a majority of more than 11,000 votes he was rejected and his record and campaign methods disapproved by the voters of Fulton County.

His present campaign is being in part financed and in large measure supported by Civil Court employees over whom he holds the power to hire and fire.

Civil Court employees, paid by your taxes, have been withdrawn from court work in order to further his campaign.

He is using courthouse telephones and facilities for his political headquarters and has mailed out thousands of political letters marked only "B10 Courthouse."

This is wrong. Judge Parker opposes it.

Your vote for J. WILSON PARKER for Judge of the Civil Court of Fulton County will help stop these abuses.

RAF Destroys Rhineland City's War Facilities

By WES GALLAGHER.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Royal Air Force bomber fleets in strong force flew 450 miles into occupied France last night and turned the upper Rhineland city of Karlsruhe into a shambles marked today by columns of smoke towering a mile and a half over the ruins of key transport and Nazi war production.

Landlords Slow In Registering Dwelling Units

Rent Control Bottleneck Looms as Owners Fail To Sign Up.

Suggestion that a serious bottleneck in rent control in the Atlanta area looms was made yesterday by Hal J. Smith, area rent control director, who announced large numbers of landlords are failing to register under requirements of the law.

"Registrations, frankly, have been slow," Smith said, "and at the present rate we will have impossible congestion at the close (September 15) or else many landlords will find the time past and themselves in violation of a federal statute."

Slow registration of 10,000 proprietors of hotels, rooming houses and boarding houses got under way yesterday. Registration of the approximately 100,000 dwelling units in the area began August 24.

"It is the public generally—the landlords of just one or two, or a very few dwelling units—who is failing to respond as we had hoped and as the national war-time program had assumed without doubt that would respond," Smith said.

"A good half of the total dwelling places are being registered by our patriotic, really men—and we are lucky indeed they have put their shoulders to the wheel so willingly and ably. Without their co-operation the situation, frankly, would be extremely bad."

"Their work accounts for possibly 50,000 units. It will be almost amazing to many Atlantans to hear that so far there have been only about 5,000 registrations other than those done by the realty men, and that at the present rate possibly 35,000 dwelling units will not be registered at the deadline."

"The law is very clear. It requires that every landlord shall register every rental dwelling unit under his control. Merely to abide by the rent freeze level of March 1, 1942, is not enough. For the purposes of proper control, a registration form is required for each dwelling unit rented. The law must and will be enforced."

Group Protests Walk Building 'For Duration'

'Taxes Too High,' Property Owners Tell Council Committee.

If the viewpoint of property owners who appeared yesterday before the city council public works committee is any indication, it's time now to stop indiscriminate building of sidewalks for the duration of the war.

A dozen or so told the committee they are against putting down sidewalks beside property they own on Coleman, Stephens, Mary, and Arthur streets at this time. The owners declared their taxes are higher now than ever, that they cannot raise rents to care for the increased cost of the property due to laying sidewalks, and that they are doing all they can in buying war bonds.

They said they didn't have the money for developing sidewalks alongside property which has not had sidewalks. The committee held up action on all streets except Sims, and advised the petition to put sidewalks on that street.

Dies Asks Biddle Report Be Shelved

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities called on congress today to reject the report of Attorney General Biddle on an FBI investigation of membership by federal employees in subversive organizations.

In a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn, Representative Dies, Democrat, Texas, contended Biddle's report, which showed a lack of extensive membership in such groups by federal workers, "failed utterly to fulfill the mandate" of congress when it requested the Justice Department to make the investigation.

"As I review the attorney general's report," Dies wrote, "I can come only to the conclusion that what he has done in effect is to give a license to every government employee to engage in any Communist subversive activity, so long as he does not go to the extent of actually carrying publicly a paid-up membership card in the Communist party."

3 Ships To Hit Waves At Fort Lauderdale

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The largest launchings of warcraft in this resort area has been set for Labor Day, when a 110-foot Navy subchaser and two 105-foot Army Air Corps rescue boats will hit the water almost simultaneously.

Without ceremony or fanfare, the vessels will be launched at Dooley's Basin and Drydock, Inc. There will be no interruption of regular work and no other observance of Labor Day, shipyard officials said, in line with the War Production Board's wishes.

The subchaser is a standard model. The aircraft rescue boats were built for patrol duty at sea as part of a large contract.

Radio Actor 'Nicky' Found Dead in Car

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Radio Actor Walter Paterson, 31, who enacted the role of "Nicky" in the national program, One Man's Family, was found dead in his automobile last night, a garden hose extending from the exhaust pipe to the driver's compartment.

He had been dead about 24 hours, said Police Lieutenant Rolan Sanders, of the Hollywood division.

NBC officials said the actor was born in South Africa, and came to the United States 12 years ago, entering radio work in San Francisco. He had been a member of the One Man's Family cast for six years. Surviving are his wife, Helen Clifford Paterson, and a daughter, Rosemary, 4. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Sun-Kissed Beauties Engineer Political Coup for Ellis Arnall

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
FITZGERALD, Ga., Sept. 3.—Sun-kissed beauties of Fitzgerald High school, fresh from the cotton fields and with the freckles of honest toil lending a distinctive glamour, today engineered a political coup for Ellis Arnall.

They bought—and paid for—a full page in The Fitzgerald Leader inviting Ben Hill county—and all of Georgia—to vote for Arnall in defense of the public schools and everything else important to girls—and boys—of high school age.

The page was sponsored by the Student Political League, headed by pretty Jean Martin, governor of Girls' State, conducted by the American Legion in Atlanta last spring.

Jean, Nezzie Sims and a bevy of other young lovelies have been picking cotton for farmers the last three weeks. And they've been saving their money, much to the chagrin of their fathers and mothers who had expected to be relieved of the pocket-change problem for the duration of the harvest.

So today Treasurer Nezzie Sims and President Jean Martin revealed the cause of the unwanted parsimony. The money had been pooled for the page ad in The Leader. It wasn't quite enough for the ad so they gathered up a few overall pocketsful of League buttons and set out to enlist enough members to finish paying for the ad.

They did and with enough left over, according to Treasurer Sims, to make a good start toward "Victory Dinner-Dance" to celebrate both the harvest and the Arnall victory.

The girls worked for Ellis Arnall in town in the same garb in which they have been working for the farmers in the country—overalls.

Is Dr. Sanford Mistaken? Read What Miss Moore Says About Negro Meeting

Chancellor S. V. Sanford, Athens, Ga.

Dear Sir:

I have read your article in reference to the University in Sunday's Banner-Herald, and in the Atlanta Journal and Constitution.

I do not desire to enter into any controversy with you, but I feel it my duty to correct certain errors which are contained in your article in reference to the meeting of negroes held in Peabody Hall, May 18th, and 19th, 1938. I happened to have been employed as a reporter to take down what was said in that meeting, and I was present during the two days of this meeting. I do not know why you should have waited until this late day to deny what I stated in the daily papers last November.

In your article the first sentence reads as follows:

"I HAVE REMAINED SILENT LONG AS I CAN."

AFTER HAVING WAITED ALL THESE MONTHS, I DO NOT SEE WHY YOU COULD NOT HAVE WAITED TEN DAYS LONGER UNTIL AFTER THE ELECTION. Your statement is evidently a political statement meant to influence votes, but I cannot allow your statement to go unchallenged for whatever purpose it may have been made.

You state in this article, evidently issued for political purposes, the following:

"Dr. Cocking conducted the meeting, and contrary to public statements I was present, and so were some other white people. I did not hear anything said at that meeting contrary to the traditions of the Southern people."

This statement is not in accordance with the truth and you know it. What are the facts? NOT A WHITE MAN WAS PRESENT AT THIS MEETING EXCEPT YOU AND COCKING. YOU SAY OTHER WHITE PEOPLE WERE PRESENT. I CHALLENGE YOU TO GIVE THE NAMES OF SUCH PERSONS. ONLY NEGROES WERE PRESENT, and I am attaching hereto a list of all persons present as was required by Cocking. There is not a white man in that list. YOU STATE THAT YOU WERE PRESENT, AND THAT IS ONLY A HALF-TRUTH.

You did come into the meeting on the first day, just before they adjourned in the afternoon. You stepped in and took a seat by Cocking and were introduced by him as the "Beloved Chancellor."

You then spoke for about 15 minutes. I started to take down in shorthand your speech, but after a few minutes Cocking said: "Do not take down Dr. Sanford's speech."

Immediately after you had closed your address of welcome, the meeting adjourned, and I want to state most positively that you never at any time heard any of these discussions between Cocking and these negroes. Therefore, you could not have said, as you heard nothing contrary to the traditions of the Southern people.

I have my notes and you began your speech as follows:

"I am going to make it very informal. I am delighted to see you present and taking such a vital interest in this program as to what we should do to make education better."

Then you continued your speech, and when you had finished, you walked out of the building, and you never came back.

I do not see how you can say that other white people were present. This statement was evidently made to deceive and to make people think that it was an open meeting and not a secret negro meeting.

The next day Cocking closed his meeting with the following statement:

"I do not want anybody to go away mistaken as to why I called a meeting last week of white folks, and why I have called a meeting of negroes. I thought if I called a meeting together that the white folks would do all the talking, and you would do all the thinking and would not talk and would not accomplish anything."

You did not deny categorically what I have stated in the newspapers occurred at that meeting. You were not even there. No man can deny this report of that meeting, and I have what was said by Cocking and what was said by the negroes, and I have the original stenographic notes. I made three full copies of what was said at that meeting and delivered them to Cocking. What did he do with these three copies? Dr. Cocking and the Rosenwald trustees must have these copies. Why don't they produce them? I saw what purported to be a copy of the report of Cocking to the Regents. This was not a full and true copy of my report. The wife of Dr. Jacobs told me that her husband had received $75.00 to take my report and delete it, color and make it readable as a report to the Board of Regents for Cocking.

I am not concerned with the academic questions raised by you as to what was the intention of Cocking, or as to what investigation you made of Cocking, or who brought him into the University. All I am concerned with is my report of that meeting, and Chancellor Sanford is insisting that you see me and let me show you the full report, and also my stenographic notes, and I invite you to bring with you a stenographer who writes the Graham-Pittman system. I know that you will not do this because you do not want the truth. You attempted to write an article in general terms that amounts to nothing. If my record is not correct, I want you to deny it after reading the full report. If it is false, it is strange that Cocking has never yet denied that report and all that was said by him and these negroes. Anybody reading this report of technical terms, the Tennessee case, and other references, would know that no stenographer could make up such a report. You read, I am informed, the excerpts from my report when first printed.

I have been a stenographer and court reporter here at Athens for many years, and no lawyer or court has questioned the accuracy of my records.

I had no interest in this matter whatsoever, and reported this meeting as I would have reported any other meeting. I received a check out of the treasury of the University of Georgia for $200.00. PEOPLE HERE AT ATHENS KNOW YOU, AND KNOW ME. LET THEM DECIDE BETWEEN US.

Because of the position you hold, and because of the political situation, the papers have printed what I had to say in 3 or 4 columns. I am going to present this article to the press, and I hope that they will be fair enough to print my reply to this charge which you have made against me and my record.

Very truly yours,

some on the camera cases of news photographers.

The listeners included Ludmilla Pavlichenko, the Russian girl sniper credited with killing more than 300 Nazis. She looked like anything but a hardened soldier, in a summery green dress and a big white hat. Also present was David Scott Molden, 22-year-old British wing commander who participated in the recent air battle over Dieppe.

Mrs. Roosevelt cautioned the guests against applauding during the speech, to which Mr. Roosevelt added, grinning:

"Yes, and don't sneeze."

At the conclusion of the address, however, the audience applauded long and noisily. Afterward, Mr. Roosevelt, remarking that he was free to say "howdy do," met and talked with a number of the delegates.

"Little Men of Little Faith."

During his speech, the President took occasion to refer scornfully to "handful of men and women, in the United States and elsewhere, who mock and sneer at the four freedoms and the Atlantic Charter." He said these "little men of little faith" are quoted with gleeful approval by the press and radio of our enemies.

The speech contained also a special message for the men of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, wherever they might be. It was this:

"You know that the road which has led you to the Solomon Islands, or to the Red Sea, or to the coast of France, is in fact an extension of Main street, and that when you fight anywhere along that road you are fighting in the defense of your homes, your own free schools, your own churches, your own ideals."

Emphatically, the President told his listeners that while youth must

Reds Retreat to New Lines

Volga and in the Black sea coastal passes was becoming increasingly critical.

Hill Defenses Stormed.

(The German High Command reported that German and Rumanian troops had cleared several fortified positions "at Stalingrad" and said strongly-defended hills were stormed on the Black sea coast between Anapa and Novorossiisk. German motor torpedo boats in the Black sea were reported to have sunk two large tankers.

The Vichy radio, which usually out-claims the Germans, said the attacking forces at Stalingrad were within seven miles of the center of the city.)

An almost continuous air struggle raged over the Stalingrad battlefield. On Wednesday alone, Red fliers engaged in 23 mass combats, downing an average of one German plane in each fight.

Red Retreat Reported.

Again the midday communique reported a Russian withdrawal in one sector southwest of Stalingrad, and of other areas it said: "Our troops fought fierce defensive engagements against large enemy forces which wedged into our defenses. One Soviet unit destroyed German tanks and wiped out German infantry which attacked the city." The Germans launched four attacks and each time encountered powerful artillery and mortar fire and were compelled to turn back. Fourteen German tanks were destroyed and about a battalion of German infantry was annihilated.

On the northwest approaches of the city the 50 tanks appeared suddenly during a dive-bombing attack. Shells from the Russians' leveled flak guns halted the tanks, but two companies of enemy infantry clung in the Red battery. The Russian gunners fought until daylight, wrecking 17 German tanks.

Ammunition Depleted.

The battery's own ammunition ran out, it captured mortar shells from the enemy and blocked the German supply route in a night battle fought in the glare of rockets. At dawn, Russian reinforcements came up and patched the Russian line.

In another sector above the city, a Russian counterattack overran an important road and railway point controlling the Germans' supply highway from the Don toward Stalingrad. Three German companies were reported wiped out in the action.

Farther north in the Kletska region of the Don elbow the Russians who have been attacking the long flank of the German supply line more than held their own in the face of tank-led counterattacks. In one area a Red army recaptured a hill littered with German dead.

Nazi Concentrated.

Following the withdrawal reported Wednesday night northwest of Novorossiisk, the Russians on the Black sea coast were being pressed from two directions—northeast and northwest.

Ever-increasing German forces were being concentrated at this end of the mountains, where the seashore skirts the Caucasian range of the west and leads 300 miles southward to the Turkish border.

Griffin Merchants Receive Warning From OPA Officer

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

GRiffin, Ga., Sept. 3.—R. W. Florrid, price specialist of the OPA, who addressed a meeting of merchants here this week, has issued a statement that "not more than 25 per cent of the retail outlets in Spalding county have complied with the federal law by filing their 'cost of living' commodities statements with the local rationing board."

Those merchants who have not complied with the federal law are faced with serious penalties, Florrid pointed out. The place of business may be closed, the proprietor may be fined and may be sentenced to jail.

Florrid urged the merchants to do their part to help win the war by complying with all federal regulations, since the rules are designed to keep down the cost of living and to prevent inflation. The federal government does not want to act hastily, and he urged all to file their statements immediately.

Text of President Roosevelt's Historic Message To International Students Assembly

Talk Delivered Before Students Of 29 Nations

Axis Taking Defensive Attitude Toward Assembly, President Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP) The text of President Roosevelt's address before the International Students' Assembly follows:

It may interest the members of this assembly of the International Student Service that, during the past week, the Axis radio has given unusual comment to your sessions and to the speech which you are hearing at this moment.

Our listening stations have picked up an increasing volume of Axis broadcasts, including controlled stations in France, Hungary, the Netherlands and elsewhere, referring to this meeting of the younger generation from all the United Nations in terms of growing hate and, of course, complete falsehood.

Our listening stations report that they expect that at this moment the air in all Axis-dominated nations will be thoroughly jammed—blacked out—in order that no sound of what I am saying either in English or in translation will be heard by any restless young people who are under Hitler's heel.

The Nazi radio in Paris, for example, tells the youth of France that Roosevelt was solely responsible for the defeat of France; that Roosevelt is not qualified to address a message to the youth of the world because America is a nation that has done nothing for youth.

Nazis Have Nothing To Offer But Death

Berlin reports that four French youth organizations have protested in advance against this speech, since Roosevelt must be blamed for the death of more than one hundred thousand young Frenchmen. Identically, it would be interesting to know how many real Frenchmen there are in these so-called French youth organizations.

A radio in Tokyo says that I am admitting to you at this moment that my people are decadent—weaklings—playboys—spoiled by jazz music and Hollywood pictures. Of course, this broadcast did not originate from any of the Japanese who bumped into our playboys in the southwest Pacific.

The reason for this hysterical defensive attitude toward this gathering is not hard to find. For many years they have made their hypocritical appeal to youth—they have tried with all their blatant publicity to represent themselves as the champions of youth.

But now the world knows that the Nazis, Fascists and the militarists of Japan have nothing to offer to youth—except death.

On the other hand, the cause of the United Nations is the cause of youth itself. It is the hope of the new generation—and the generations that are to come—hope for a new life that can be lived in freedom, and justice, and decency.

Youth Pattern Imposed by Hitler
This fact is becoming clearer every day to the young people of Europe, where the Nazis are trying to create youth organizations built on the Nazi pattern. It is not a pattern devised by youth for youth. It is a pattern devised by Hitler and imposed upon youth by a form of mental force feeding—a diet of false facts, distortions, and prohibitions—all backed up by the guns of the Gestapo.

If you have any doubt as to what the decent youth of Europe think about the false promises the Axis masters make to the young people of the world, look to the brave young men of France and all the occupied countries who prefer to face the firing squads rather than a lifetime of slavery and degradation under Hitler.

In such unfortunate countries as Finland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania and Italy, where governments have found it necessary to submit to Hitler and do his bidding, the Quislings have organized youth movements too—but these are only movements of youth by the tens of thousands to the slaughter of the eastern front, where the Nazis need cannon-fodder in their desperate attempts to shatter the stalwart Russian army.

In China, heroic youth has stood steadfast for more than five years against all of Japan's attempts to seduce and disarm them with such transparent lies as the promise of "Asia for the Asiatics." For the Chinese know that this

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

only means "all of creation enslaved by the Japanese."

We exult in the thought that it is the young, free men and women of the United Nations, and not the wound-up robots of the slave states, who will mold the shape of the world.

The delegates to this International Student Assembly represent the 29 United Nations. They also represent, in spirit at least, the younger generation of many other nations who, though they are not now at arms, stand in every way with us heart and soul in aspiration for a secure and peaceful world.

Before the first World War, very few people in any country believed that youth had the right to speak for itself as a group or to participate in councils of state. We have learned much since then. We know that wisdom does not come necessarily with years; that old men may be foolish, and young men wise. But in every war, it is the younger generation which bears the burden of combat and inherits all the ills that war leaves in its wake.

In the economic crises that followed the false prosperity after the first World War, many young men and women suffered even more than did their elders. For they were denied the primary opportunities for education, for training, for work, or even for food enough to build up healthy bodies. As a result, they were tempted to seek some simple remedy not only for their own individual problems, but for all the problems that beset the world. Some listened to alien, siren voices which offered glib answers to all the questions. "Democracy is dead," said these voices. "Follow us, and we will teach you efficiency. We will lead you to world conquest. We will give you power over inferior races. And all that we ask you to give in return is—your freedom."

Other young people in the democracies listened to gospels of despair. They took refuge in cynicism and bitterness.

However, the day finally came when all theory had to give way to fact—the terrible, tangible fact of dive bombers, panzer divisions, the actual threat to the security of every home and every family in every free country in the world. And when that fact became clear to our youth they answered the call to arms—many millions of them; and today, they are determined to fight until the forces of aggression have been utterly destroyed.

What I am saying here in Washington is being heard by several million American soldiers, sailors and marines, not only within the continental limits of the United States but in far distant points—in Central and South America, in the islands of the Atlantic, in Britain and Ireland, on the coasts of Africa, in Egypt, in Iraq and Iran, in Russia, in India, in China, in Australia, in New Zealand, in many islands of the Pacific and on all the seas of the world. There—in all those places—are our fighting men.

Worthy of Highest Traditions of U. S.

And to them I should like to deliver a special message, from their commander-in-chief, and from the very hearts of their countrymen:

You young Americans today are conducting yourselves in a manner that is worthy of the highest, proudest traditions of our nation. No pilgrims who landed on the uncharted New England coast, no pioneers who forced their way through the trackless wilderness, showed greater fortitude, greater determination, than you are showing now.

Neither your own fathers, in 1918, nor your fathers' fathers, in 1863 or 1776, fought with greater gallantry or more selfless devotion to duty and country than you are now displaying on battlefields far from home.

And what is more, you know why you are fighting. You know that the road which has led you to the Solomon Islands, or the Red Sea, or to the coast of France, is in fact an extension of Main street, and that when you fight, anywhere along that road, you are fighting in the defense of your own homes, your own free schools, your own churches, your own ideals.

We here at home are supremely conscious of our obligations to you, now and in the future. We will not let you down.

We know that in the minds of many of you are thoughts of interrupted education, interrupted careers, delayed opportunities for getting a job. The solution of such problems cannot be left, as it was last time, to mere chance. This government has accepted the responsibility for seeing to it that, wherever possible, work has been provided for those who were willing and able, but who could not find work. That responsibility will continue after the war. And when you come home, we do not propose to involve you, as last time, in a domestic economic mess of our own making.

You are doing first things first—fighting to win this war. For you know that should this war be lost, all our plans for the peace to follow would be meaningless.

Victory is essential; but victory is not enough for you—or for us. You must be sure that when you have won victory, you will not have to tell your children that you fought in vain—that you were betrayed. We must be sure that in your homes there will not be want—that in your schools only the living truth will be taught—that in your churches there may be preached without fear a faith in which men may deeply believe.

The better world for which you give your lives—will not come merely because we shall have won the war. It will not come merely because we wish very hard that it would come. It will be made possible only by bold vision, intelligent planning and hard work. It cannot be brought about overnight, but only by years of effort and perseverance and unflinching faith.

You young soldiers and sailors, farmers and factory workers, artists and scholars, who are fighting your way to victory now, all of you will have to take your part in shaping that world. You will earn it by what you do now; but you will not attain it if you leave the job for others to do alone. When you lay aside your gun at the end of the war, you cannot at the same time lay aside your duty to the future.

What I have said to our American soldiers and sailors applies to all the young men and women of the United Nations who are facing our common enemies. There is a complete unanimity of spirit among all the youth of all kinds and kindreds who fight to preserve or to regain their freedom.

Four Freedoms Concept of Youth

In Norway and Holland, Belgium and France, Czechoslovakia and Poland, Serbia and Greece, there is a fighting spirit that defies the harsh oppression, the barbarous cruelty and terrorism of the Nazis. Although disarmed, the unconquerable people still strike at their oppressors. Although forbidden to know the truth, they listen at the risk of their lives to radio broadcasts from afar; and, by word of mouth and by secret newspaper passed from one patriot to another, they still spread the truth. When the time comes for these peoples to rise, Hitler's new order will be destroyed by the hands of its own victims.

Today the embattled youth of Russia and China are realizing a new individual dignity, casting off the last links of the ancient chains of imperial despotism which had bound them so long.

This is a development of historic importance. It means that the old term, "western civilization," no longer applies. World events and the common needs of all humanity are joining the culture of Asia with the culture of Europe and of the Americas to form, for the first time, a real world civilization.

In the concept of the four freedoms, in the basic principles of the Atlantic charter, we have set for ourselves high goals, unlimited objectives.

These concepts and these principles are designed to form a world in which men, women and children can live in freedom and in equity and, above all, without fear of the horrors of war. For no soldiers or sailors, in any of our forces today, would so willingly endure the rigors of battle if they thought that in another 20 years their own sons would be fighting still another war on distant deserts or seas or in far-away jungles or skies.

We have profited by our past mistakes. This time we shall know how to make full use of victory. This time the achievements of our fighting forces will not be thrown away by political cynicism and timidity and incompetence.

There is still a handful of men and women, in the United States and elsewhere, who mock and sneer at the four freedoms and the Atlantic charter. They are few in number; but some of them have the financial power to give our enemies the false impression that they have a large following among our citizenry. They play petty politics in a world crisis. They fiddle with many sour notes while civilization burns. These puny prophets decry our determination to implement our high concepts and sound principles. And the words of these little men of little faith are quoted with gleeful approval by the press and radio of our enemies.

We are deeply aware that we cannot achieve our goals easily. We cannot attain the fullness of all our ideals overnight. We know that this is to be a long and hard and bitter fight—and that there will still be an enormous job for us to do long after the last German, Japanese and Italian bombing planes have been shot to earth. But we do believe that, with Divine guidance, we can make—in this dark world of today, and in the new post-war world—a steady progress toward the highest goals that men have ever imagined.

We of the United Nations have the technical means, the physical resources, and, most of all, the adventurous courage and the vision and the will that are needed to build and sustain the kind of world order which alone can justify the tremendous sacrifices now being made by our youth.

But we must keep at it—we must never relax, never falter, never fear—and we must keep at it together.

We must maintain the offensive against evil in all its forms. We must work and we must fight to insure that our children shall have and shall enjoy in peace their inalienable rights to freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want, freedom from fear. Only on those bold terms can this total war result in total victory.

Council Group Corrects Error, Promptly Opens 'Closed' Street

City council's public works committee discovered yesterday the city has up and made a slight error—the mistake of abandoning a block-long stretch of street right in the middle of eight-block-long Wheeler street.

"We just slipped up on that one," remarked Councilman George Lyle, as the committee voted unanimously to recommend that city council rescind its action abandoning the block.

It all began last year, when H. Epstein, a junk dealer, petitioned the city to close up the street, contending he owned the property on both sides and it was not in use and had never been developed.

Things rocked along, and the matter came up in council again this year, just a month or so ago. It had committee approval and went right through and became a law of the city.

It wasn't until the proper authorities went out, to Wheeler street, which lies off Bankhead avenue in northwest Atlanta, and put up fences at the ends of the abandoned block that anything showed up wrong.

The fences suddenly found themselves slightly demolished. Some other blockades were put up and just as promptly found themselves "blitzed" by angry neighbors.

So, yesterday the public works committee had a public hearing and quite a few residents of Wheeler street showed up, each declaring the street is very important to them. Police Chief Hornsby and Fire Chief Styron came too. The street is necessary to both fire and police services, they said.

Whereupon, the committee decided to undo what council had done and to open up the "closed" street again.

"Trouble is, we thought Wheeler street was a dead-end street and had a ravine in it you had to get an airplane to cross," said Lyle. "We should have gone out there and investigated in the first place."

Eagle Squadron Opens Today At Capitol

Robert Stack and Diana Barrymore Starred in Film.

"Eagle Squadron," the story of American fighter pilots in the Royal Air Force, starring Robert Stack and Diana Barrymore, continues its Atlanta engagement at the Capitol theater beginning today.

Miss Barrymore, the youngest member of the celebrated "royal family" of stage and screen, makes her screen debut in this picture in the role of a member of the WAAF. Stack is an American boy who joins the RAF.

A story of human emotions against a great war background, "Eagle Squadron" relates the experiences of a young Californian who joins the RAF to fly a Spitfire against the Nazis. In his romance with Miss Barrymore, Stack tries to solve the human emotions of the war.

Baker Opens New Shoe Salon

In Baker's new Victory Shoe Store, Mr. M. Kessler, manager, is showing Miss Annette Baker some new Autumn styles in feminine footwear. The store is called a "victory" store because no materials essential to the war effort are used in its construction or furnishings.

Plastic and suede combine in this heel-less sandal, designed especially for dressy occasions. The plastic is clear and transparent and has small perforations all over. Straps, heels, bows and edging of plastic is black suede. Priced at $3.99.

Low heels are extremely popular this season. This one is made of black suede, the heels are modified wedges, and the toes are dotted with square-cut gold nailheads. The price is $2.99.

These oxfords are sturdy, though they have enough interesting details to give them distinction. They are laced like a ghillie, and stitched on vamp, soles and heels. The vamp and sides of laced section have perforated designs. Price of this oxford is $3.30.

Manager in Old Location Is In Charge of New "Victory" Store

Baker's new "Victory" Store is located at 97 Peachtree, and a formal opening will be held at this new location tomorrow. It is the same store that for ten years was located at the corner of Whitehall and Alabama, with Mr. M. Kessler, who for ten years has managed the old store, managing the new.

No materials vital to war industries or military needs were used in this modern shoe store; it was remodeled and furnished without use of metals or any priorities materials which is why it is called a "Victory" store. The interior is lighted with modern designed fluorescent lighting. A rich, all-over carpet with floral design of yellow and beige blends with the maple and zebra pressed-wood walls and fixtures. The comfortable chairs upholstered in two solid colors, were designed for feminine eye appeal and relaxation while having shoes fitted.

This modern store will feature the same nationally advertised Quali-Craft shoes which Baker's have found that Atlanta women know and like. Mar-V-Lus hosiery will still be featured, also handbags to match shoes.

The store is completely air-conditioned and all shoe stocks are behind the walls; no rows of boxes meet the customer's eye.

The Libyan Keystone

It is quite probable, when the history of this war comes to be written, the battle of Libya and Egypt which is today in its early stages, will be recognized as the crucial campaign of 1942, maybe of the whole war. In its effect upon the final outcome the struggle between the Germans under Rommel and the Allied forces under Alexander is apt to be of even greater importance than the fighting on the Russian front.

On the one hand, if Rommel succeeds in taking Alexandria and the Suez Canal, the Nazis will cut the last supply line to Russia, with the sole exception of the difficult and costly route by Arctic seas to Murmansk. More than this, the road will then be open for a Nazi drive through the Persian gulf and for conquest of India. India, incidentally, due to the machinations of Mohandas Gandhi and his devoted followers, would easily fall to Japs or Germans under such circumstances.

On the other side of the picture, the strategic advantage which would come to the Allied Nations by defeat of Rommel's North African forces can scarcely be over valued. By gaining control of the North African coast, the Allies would control the Mediterranean Sea, would be in position to immobilize Italian aid to the Nazis and might, even, then be able to open the long-awaited "second front" by an invasion of Italy.

Allied victory in Africa would make safe the Middle East and would assure the supply lines through the Persian gulf. It might, even, make safe the shorter route via the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal.

At present writing reports from the El Alemein front are favorable to our side. It is indicated we have heavy air superiority and that Rommel's opening attack against the first British line of defense has been thrown back. American air forces, bombers, fighters and torpedo planes are taking large part in the air battle. American tanks, said to be superior to anything Rommel has, are in the thick of the fight.

All the Allied world must wait, and pray, for victory on the hot sands of the African desert. If Rommel can be defeated and driven back—and swept out of Africa—it will mark the turning point in the war, the hour when the forces of Nazidom begin that rapid descent into the abyss of defeat.

Buy More Bonds!

For adequate financing of the national war program it is necessary that the people of the United States buy, on an average, $1,000,000,000 in war bonds every month. If this is not done it will result in heavier taxes than would otherwise be necessary, in compulsory purchases of bonds or in both.

So far, this year, the nation has fallen short of the requisite billion-dollar bond purchases per month. In May sales totaled only $634,400,000. In June they were $633,900,000.

For September the U. S. Treasury has set the national quota at $775,000,000. This is low, because September is recognized as a month of low sales either in baby bonds or defense bonds.

However, the failure to reach the desired rate of a billion-dollar sales per month means that sales during the winter months will have to be far higher, to "catch up the slack." Already, the Treasury is hinting at a two-billion-dollar quota for January.

If we do not meet the challenge, we shall have to accept compulsion, either through taxes or bonds. And it is much better to meet the need voluntarily.

Besides, what better investment can anyone find today than these bonds, which pay fair interest and, as to safety, are guaranteed by the full power of the United States government?

Needed, Teachers

Georgia, of course, is not alone in suffering from a serious shortage of school teachers. Various causes have brought this condition about in most states. Many male teachers have joined the armed services for the war. Many others have found positions in business and industry at rates of pay much greater than the salaries paid school teachers in some states, Georgia included.

That this shortage is serious, none will deny. It is, however, a greater threat in the high schools of the state than elsewhere. This is because, as the war progresses, the high schools will become more and more important.

There can be no doubt the day is not far distant when young men of 18 and 19 years of age will be eligible for the selective service draft. The need for men for the Army makes this change inevitable. This will mean that practically all the young men of physical capacity will be going to the Army upon their graduation from high school.

The importance of competent teachers thereby becomes self-evident. At the same time it becomes clear there must be some change in high school curricula, to aid these youngsters to become as well qualified as possible for careers in such branches of the Army or Navy as they may select.

For instance, a college degree or college experience is not essential for a good airplane pilot, but a knowledge of advanced mathematics is. Young men who have graduated from high school, who have specialized in mathematics, make good pilots. But they must have that training in advanced mathematics.

The same is true of other branches of the service. Thus, mathematics becomes a subject of exceptional importance in high school curricula in a time of war.

We must have competent teachers, especially those qualified to teach the special high school subjects most needed by students faced with Army service after graduation.

Now for Tokyo's word of a new victory in the Solomons, wherein the loser hotly pursues the winner who has fled to report his triumph.

Another Termite Gone

Loyal Americans greeted with satisfaction the news that another Nazi termite had been sentenced to jail. This latest specimen of the genus Hitler went by the name of Herbert Karl Friedrich Bahr. He was convicted of being a Nazi spy and sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment. It is to be hoped he will serve the full term, that he will remain behind the bars, where he can not have opportunity to work his traitorous trade. For this man was bent upon destroying the United States.

At that, this Bahr received better than he deserved. The federal judge who sentenced him to jail could have sentenced him to death. What would have happened to such a man in that paradise of the Gestapo, Nazi Germany? He would have been shot or his head would have been chopped off by the man in full dress who wears these habiliments to dignify his office as official headman. The sentence would have been carried out summarily; it is doubtful if such a man would have even had a trial.

Yet in this country, this man received a fair trial. An impartial federal judge sentenced him. It is worth noting that the judge, in sentencing this specimen of Herren-volk, said: "I believe you have not divulged all you know. You told the names of people being implicated who are now in Europe, and you knew they could not be proceeded against here. I don't think you told all the names of persons you were to have seen here."

Of course he did not tell those names. He said nothing. He did not even look at the judge, this Bahr. He did not speak because he was afraid to speak. He was a Nazi. He was a destroyer of all we hold dear. He is now behind bars. He will remain there. It is the only place for his kind.

GENE IN OUR MIDST—ALAS!

(From The Cobb County Times)

We have been told that Talmadge is a showman, that whatever else his sins, he always is entertaining. We were even willing to admit that to his credit—until he made the mistake of holding a political rally in our public square.

It was a mistake, for now the myth of his showmanship is exploded. Anybody who stood through it all certainly proved he could take a lot of punishment. If that is good showmanship, that dull, rambling, issue-avoiding talk . . . well, then, the moon is made of green cheese.

Otis Brumby said in his column several weeks back that he was tired of Talmadge's broken promises, his false issues . . . that he was tired of Talmadge himself. Mr. Brumby now has a lot more folk who feel the same way. Just tired and bored. "We are not amused."

If this is the best show Gene can put on . . . and it seems about the same as his other speeches . . . he's as poor a showman as he is a governor, and that is mighty poor.

"Here's to red-suspended Gene, the dullest showman we've ever seen."

Yep—dull as dishwater . . . and a lot dirtier. But even his dirty use of a faded issue doesn't get anyone excited. It's just dull. No . . . four more years of dictatorship we might live through, but four more years of dull stupidity is just too much.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

BLACKEST TREACHERY WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—No blacker page in history will be written than that dealing with the treachery and the utter disregard of solemn treaties with nations practiced by the Axis powers in plunging the world into war.

Lest we forget, the beginning of the fourth year of the conflict offers an occasion for reviewing these various acts of treachery.

Hitler's first act of aggression came in 1938, the year before the war, when he demanded and received as the price of peace the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia. Subsequently, in March of 1939, he seized Prague and announced to the world that Czechoslovakia no longer existed. He did this in violation of a solemn declaration he had made to the world at the time of the Munich conference that, with the acquisition of Sudetenland, Germany had no further territorial demands to make in Europe.

Less than six months later, he violated a 10-year nonaggression pact with Poland by invading that country. This is the spark that set off the conflagration. England and France had treaty obligations to protect the territorial integrity of Poland, hence declarations of war were immediately forthcoming from these countries.

In connection with the German-Polish nonaggression pact, which was signed in Berlin on January 26, 1934, it is interesting to point out that Hitler on that occasion had this to say: "The most dangerous place for European peace has entirely lost its menace. Poland respects the national conditions in the Free City of Danzig and Germany respects Polish rights." About a month later, he added: "I fully realize that it is imperative for a nation of 35,000,000 to have free access to the sea."

MORE TREATY SCRAPPING The next acts of treaty scrapping came between April 9 and June 2, 1940, when Germany successively invaded Denmark, Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg—all friendly little nations which were powerless to defend themselves. Each was overrun and placed under the Nazi yoke, in violation of definite commitments to respect their neutrality.

Then came the invasion of Yugoslavia and Greece, begun April 6, 1941, to complete something the blustering Mussolini had started but found himself unable to finish.

Then, a few months later, came the prime act of them all. Without serving any demands whatever, Hitler on June 22 threw into the ashcan a 10-year treaty made with Russia less than two years previously, and invaded that country.

AND PEARL HARBOR Finally, we have the performance of the Japs at Pearl Harbor: a surprise attack on our fleet at the very time a special envoy from Japan was discussing terms of peace in Washington. Three weeks before that, Premier Tojo had publicly stated in Tokyo that Japan was making every effort toward the peaceful settlement of affairs in the Pacific. Even as his words were uttered, Japanese fleet units must have been taking off from their bases for the long passage to Hawaii.

Here is a record of duplicity and double-dealing that is perhaps unequalled in the annals of civilization. Every move of aggression and aggrandizement made by the Axis has been in violation of conventions honestly entered into by nations who had a right to expect that the other parties to the agreement would keep their word. Events have shown that Hitler concocted the treaties as a blind to his real plans, and that he was designed to hold one nation off until its potential ally could be overrun.

In the face of such a record, it is amazing to look back and recall that some of our simple-minded isolationists in the days before Pearl Harbor were running up and down the country with proposals that we negotiate peace treaties with Germany and Japan! Such proposals were actually made, but many times, with the greatest seriousness—by none other than our once big national hero, Colonel Lindbergh. It was joined in by the Nyes, the Wheelers and the Fishes.

LIKE RUBBER CHECK Signing a peace pact with Hitler is like checking the checkbook of a dead-beat with whose rubber paper you are already loaded down.

The war started with the invasion of Poland three years ago on September 1, but it might easily have had an earlier or later beginning. It was inevitable from the moment Hitler was allowed to build up a vast new German military machine. The tip-off should have come as far back as 1934, when von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister, after signing the peace treaty with Poland, proposed to the Polish foreign minister, Colonel Josef Beck, that Germany and Poland join in an attack on Russia. Poland refused, but the very fact that such a thing was proposed should have been evidence enough of Hitler's plans.

We're All Heroes

In Our Hearts.

It is probable that every man who ever lived was, in his own secret heart, a hero. No matter how small, how timid, how insignificant he might be in actual life, in his daydreams he was of heroic stature and heroic deeds were actually being performed by some sort of other.

Even the most unscrupulous killers of gangland, it is to be believed, dramatize and romanticize their careers, until they picture themselves as brave fighters when they go down under police guns. Instead of the rats they really are, they think of it, at least probably conceive of it as a noble and fearless animal.

That secret dream of ourselves in heroic roles is why pulp magazine fiction is so popular. The readers of such stuff see themselves, as in their hearts they believe themselves to be, in every hard riding cowboy who rounds up the rustlers, in every superb Superman who battles noxious villains from some other world on an interplanetary ship, in every two-fisted detective who foils the criminals at the crucial moment.

And it is the same instinct to dramatize one's self that makes every honest little girl see herself in the glamorous heroines of popular fiction.

We're all noble, in our hearts.

The Lure

Of The Army.

Some of the men who are drafted into the armed forces may see only a future of dirt and cruelty, of death and suffering. But most of them come to accept Army life as offering the best of all opportunities for revelation of the heroism they know is theirs, once given the chance to use it.

And, as a matter of fact, those same fellows are 99 times out of 100, correct in their self-diagnosis. They will fill the role of heroes if the need and the opportunity arises.

In the ordinary routine of day by day life we go along, nothing remarkable happening, nothing remarkable about us. We plod, we work and eat and sleep. And, occasionally, we pause in the routine path and indulge in day dreams. Maybe we gaze upward into the skies and visualize ourselves in some spectacular hero role in some interplanetary drama.

Or we dream of setting the world afire by miraculous triumphs in sports, as baseball heroes or All-Americans such as the gridiron model never knew. We dream how, if we had had the right start in life, we could today beat Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship without exerting ourselves. And so on and so forth.

There is interruption, the day dream fades, and we wake up to realize we are but Joe Doakes, insurance clerk; Bill Boone, shoe salesman; or Ralph Jones, newspaper editorialist.

Other

Heroisms.

But there is a type of heroism which isn't romanticized in magazine stories, which isn't spread over the front pages of newspapers.

A heroism which is, nevertheless, just as great, if not greater, than any other. That is the heroism of the commonplace, the bravery of routine, the courage of the plodders.

There are many men, today, who might have had opportunity to make their dramatic dreams come true if they had not sacrificed them for some other, prosaic duty.

How many men have exercised that rarer courage of day after day, week after week, year after year, sacrifice of desires and dreams alike, so loved ones might know greater comfort and luxury, or that children might gain the education to fit them for finer roles in life than their father ever knew.

I wouldn't belittle the courageous youth who wins renown and medals of honor for some outstanding feat of heroism on the field of battle. But I am not sure but that the plodding soldiers who hold the line, who carry on despite all discomfort and suffering and, yes, fear, are the ones who actually win the battles.

The ball-carrying halfback may be the idol of cheering thousands in the stands, but he wouldn't have started on his 90-yard run at all if his teammates in the line hadn't held the enemy and made a hole for him to break through.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Accident Toll NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—It seemed that President Roosevelt was just filling-in when, in his dedication speech at the Navy Medical Center in Bethesda, he remarked that 40,000 Americans were killed in automobile accidents last year. For one-third of the nation, more or less, those days are gone for the duration at least, and for the rest, it is likely that after election the restrictions intended to save rubber or the transportation of gasoline will reduce the slaughter to a minimum. The time for genuine alarm over the killing is gone, or going fast, and regret is hardly worth the effort and time.

But the President then proceeded to the toll of 19,000 killed in industrial accidents and more than 2,000,000 injured and said that among that vast number killed and injured last year were many men and women who could have helped to build planes, tanks, ships and guns or could have served in civilian defense or other essential services.

"As a result of industrial accidents alone," he said, "quite apart from those which were fatal, the time lost last year reached the almost incredible total of 42,000,000 man-days."

Now we begin to get the idea. Last winter Mrs. Roosevelt expressed the same thought and it had been put forth before by way of an offset to the loss of time through strikes, stalling and whistle-jumping in the war effort.

No Real Estimate We do not have an honest estimate of the number of man-days lost this way, nor will we ever have one. There are several reasons why we can't have the truth and one of them is political. A government which calls itself a "labor administration" cannot be expected to deal frankly with the loss of man-days due to the actions of its political wards. That is one reason. Another is that the slow-down and the practice of whistle-jumping are not measurable in terms of time lost. A third is that when one group of workers engaged in one operation knock off a certain time in a dispute over jurisdiction, recognition or union maintenance, the stoppage in their department eventually slows down, or stops work in other departments or other plants far away, a loss which then may be charged to lack of materials.

Moreover, the loss of individual man-days by injured workers does not mean stoppage. One man or two or three fall out of line because of injuries, but others move up and the work goes on. The plant doesn't close and schedules are met, except in case of explosion or bad fire which wrecks the shop itself. But a picket line stops everything at the scene of the dispute and the loss widens out afterward.

Industrial accidents are mostly unavoidable. Some certainly are due to carelessness and greed on the part of the management and others are chargeable to carelessness or cynicism on the part of individual workers themselves. But only saboteurs deliberately cause injuries to workers and we may presume that they have means of dealing with saboteurs. On the other hand, the strike is a deliberate and, nowadays, an unnecessary and inexcusable interruption of work in war tasks. In each case some individual or small committee has the top responsibility for saying that a certain number of men and women shall quit work and that nobody else, however willing to work, shall be allowed to keep the war tools coming off the line. The unions have been given elaborate protection by the government agencies which are sympathetic with them. And, at best, impartial toward the employers, any just grievance will be decided in the workers' favor, often retroactively, and they are supposed to be adult and patriotic groups and able to see for saying that a certain number of men and women shall quit work and that nobody else, however willing to work, shall be allowed to keep the war tools coming off the line. The unions have been given elaborate protection by the government agencies which are sympathetic with them. And, at best, impartial toward the employers, any just grievance will be decided in the workers' favor, often retroactively, and they are supposed to be adult and patriotic groups and able to see for saying that a certain number of men and women shall quit work and that nobody else, however willing to work, shall be allowed to keep the war tools coming off the line.

At any rate, although some percentage of time-loss due to accidents may be preventable, all loss due to strikes of all kinds is caused by deliberate decision of men who could be held responsible, but never are, and this phase is seldom acknowledged at all by the government and then only to be minimized.

Mostly Unavoidable Industrial accidents are mostly unavoidable. Some certainly are due to carelessness and greed on the part of the management and others are chargeable to carelessness or cynicism on the part of individual workers themselves. But only saboteurs deliberately cause injuries to workers and we may presume that they have means of dealing with saboteurs. On the other hand, the strike is a deliberate and, nowadays, an unnecessary and inexcusable interruption of work in war tasks. Word Stories By W. Worthington Wells.

Any unusual activity is likely to produce new words or new uses for old words.

Our war effort has brought forth a good old word that has lain dormant in our dictionaries for years without ever seeing the light of day. Now it is spread upon the front page of every newspaper in the land. It seems that some profound thinker among the newspaper writing gentry with a flair for pedagogy, needed one word to describe a given situation where general, head, director, leader or boss was not quite sufficient, decided on the word "directive." The recognized definition of directive is: a general order or to lines of conduct and procedure.

One reads that Elmer Davis, head of the new office of War Information is empowered "to issue binding directives" to the various news-releasing agencies of the government. Other men in key spots of government or business may issue "directives" to their subordinates.

The pronunciation of directive is similar to that of director in that the primary accent is on the same syllable.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

PLEASE, REMEMBER In sunny Belfast, already feeling the cooling movement of winds from the sea, a murderer was hanged.

Some 300 persons, friends of the Irish Republican army, outlawed by England, flocked on by the Irish Free State itself, were gathered in protest outside the jail where the murderer was hanged. (The Irish Free State has given members of the IRA no standing, arrests them for disorders.)

Two American soldiers, drawn there by curiosity, were booed. Some few shouted, "Why don't you go home?" Later some stones were thrown at an American officer in his car. Police arrested two rioters, quickly sentenced them to three months in jail.

It isn't important, except as a straw in the wind and an illustration. Remember that Ireland is neutral. It is pledged to obtain from England the "six counties" of North Ireland. The Irish Free State, embarrassed, had to protest the arrival of American soldiers in North Ireland.

The IRA is pledged to destroy English rule in North Ireland, "by any possible means." It blows up bridges, murders policemen, would lead in the Germans if it could. That it is financed by German agents, thick in neutral Dublin, and Irish Free State ports, goes without saying.

It was born out of the days of "The Troubles." It was in existence, in one form or another, through all the years before "The Troubles," in the early twenties.

Those were the days of England's shameful reign of terror by "The Black and Tans," when murder and torture and ambush gave Ireland a civil war, the wounds of which still are raw and unhealed. The whole thing is an illustration of what a stupid policy will do to a people. England, and no Englishman, can explain away the centuries of stupid cruelty, injustice and mistakes of England's treatment of Ireland.

Neville Chamberlain, born to blunder, tried a terrible economic war. There were borders between the Free State and the Six Counties more difficult to pass than those between Germany and England. (This in 1937 and 1938.) Belfast trade was hurt. The city of Londonderry was stagnated. The Irish cattle business was all but ruined. The economic war was ended by a treaty in which English garrisons were withdrawn from Irish ports.

The fanatics, always dangerous, have given the enemies of England and the United States a jolt by this small riot which will be largely misrepresented. Fanatics are dangerous, be they in Belfast, Atlanta, Berlin, Tokyo or Rome.

Don't let that little incident in Belfast disturb you. It is no more important than some of the riots staged by the Coughlinites and the "Mothers of America" in our own cities some months ago.

IRELAND, NO MORE It is odd, and not according to the historical tradition, that Ireland should not be in the war. Many of the Irish are, of course.

There was Paddy Finucane, from Dublin, who led an English RAF squadron to many victories and much glory, dying as his plane crashed in the sea. You may remember the story. He shouted in his radio microphone just before the plane hit, "This is it, boys!"

Still, it is odd to have an Ireland not fighting. Do you recall Kipling's poem of the Irish Guards who went to fight for France in 1918:

"Old days! The wild geese are flying,
Head to the storm as they faced it before!
For where there are Irish there's bound to be fighting,
And when there's no fighting, it's Ireland no more!"

The Irish always loved America and Americans. It was America that gave them hope. It is odd to have the Irish government protest American troops in North Ireland:

"For where there are Irish there's memory undying,
And when we forget, it's Ireland no more!
For where there are Irish their hearts are unchanging,
And when they are changed, it is Ireland no more!"

It isn't according to the tradition. The Irish were always fighting, always brawling with the world. It is too bad to have them harboring the German agents and letting the Germans use them. I can understand it, I, who will always love Ireland and the Irish people, and their hills and rock fences with the gorse and hawthorne in them; the little towns, the lonely roads of the North, and the dark hills.

Well, the Irish will work it out. They have been much put upon and they have fought long and many have died for the independence they have. It is not too unusual that freedom, coming after years of fighting and dying for it, should be strong, heady wine to some. I think the Irish are wrong about their position. But, even so, many and many an Irishman has slipped across the channel and is fighting and dying for England.

The fighting and the loving hasn't ended. There's time yet.

What! No Parade
On Labor Day? This War Gets Serious

There will be no parade, they say, to celebrate this Labor Day with trombone, flute and big bassoon that's always somewhat out of tune. The blacksmith who, in other years, collapsed the ear-drums in our ears by pounding on the anvil's horn in all the hours of the morn, will work and get some forgings made instead of joining a parade.

No white-clad ladies shall we see, from Stitches Local Forty-three, go limping by with shoes that cry... with bunions hot and tonight dry.

We will not hang our carcass out some window while we gaily shout to cheer some friend who's marching past like every step would be his last... who wishes he was home in bed or, better still, just slightly dead.

We will not stand on some sidewalk and at some thin-clad dandelion hawk when he rides by upon a float that represents a bride-boat, nor slip on a banana skin dropped by some freckled kid of sin.

At home we'll quietly sit down, for what's the use to go to town when there is no parade to view... no thrill for folks like me and you, who break our necks if we can see just any kind of show that's free.

Ah, Hitler, you atrocious Hun... just look, now, what you want and done!

All Honest Men

In this newspaper's "Pulse of the Public" department a few days ago appeared a letter from a Talmadge adherent regarding the destruction of several Talmadge signs on a highway. I agree with the writer, of course, that such vandalism is to be deplored.

But one sentence in the letter amused me—because it took in so much territory, or population. The writer averred: "There is not a single Talmadge supporter who would stoop so low as to steal the personal property of another."

I think our correspondent was carried away by his own enthusiasm. Georgia has had its full share of thieves who have indulged in both petty and grand larceny. At least, that's what the juries said. They are Baptists, Presbyterians, Methodists, white, black and mixed.

Are we asked to believe that of all the thieves in the jails and state prison there is no supporter of the Honorable Gene? I can submit no evidence, but I'm sure there are about as many crooks and sinners in the Talmadge camp as in Arnall's. If we consider proportionate crookedness in relation to population, perhaps Arnall has more in his group than Old Gene has.

How About It, Bill?

City of Atlanta has purchased 40,000 gallons of gasoline, for use in fire engines, the patrol wagon and garbage trucks. Which is good news.

I have long been a friend, admirer and supporter of Mayor Hartsfield. I have never asked for a favor, not even allowing the discount on a water bill paid six days too late. But I think I'll pay him a visit.

I would not ask him to violate federal laws by giving me or selling me a few gallons of the city's gas. But we might make some arrangement.

I would hesitate to attempt driving a fire engine and, besides, I might have to check around the station for hours awaiting an alarm and then the engine wouldn't be going my way. And I have never been ridden in a police patrol wagon—on the front seat.

But if I could make a deal to haul a little garbage—from rem-

DR. BASCOM ANTHONY.

Pvidence permitting, Dr. Bascom Anthony will preach at Druid Hills Baptist church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. His sermon will be broadcast over radio station WGST.

He has been at Clayton since his recent week of preaching at Salem camp ground, and will be on his way back to south Georgia, stopping off for the day with us Sunday. He has been at Clayton, as he puts it, to "recharge his batteries" in the crisp atmosphere of that lovely little city in the Georgia hill country.

I regard Dr. Bascom Anthony as one of the truly great men of our day and generation. Born on the farm, he came up through hard way, which, perhaps, was the best way. If he had been pampered too much, he might have missed the bus. He had to work from his earliest youth—always a blessing for any child, provided there are kindly hearts to fortify and encourage the steps of youth. He gave his heart and his life to Jesus, and ever since, he has walked with the Lord. God called him to preach the unsearchable riches of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Deprived of a college education, he made most of his opportunities, and is today one of the best educated men I know. And he is a true friend of education.

He is the rear of my car it might make it possible for me to travel between my house and the cemetery.

The idea offers possibilities, at least.

Listening in on a radio address the other evening—while I was seeking a college program—I heard an unidentified orator discoursing upon the virtues and advantages of matrimony.

"A good wife is an anchor," he said. But I was swinging the dial and missed the rest of him.

That's of those statements you must analyze. Then you must try to figure out what the speaker meant.

I don't think a wife—good or just average—would like to be called an anchor.

When a sailor, just off a long voyage, sails into port, what does he do?

He drops the anchor into some 40 feet of water and lets it rest in the mud. Show me a wife who'd like to be an anchor while her husband is in port.

There's many a slip 'twixt the hose and the skirt, as a census in any shopping block will reveal.

In this connection—or lack of it—may I ask you a woman who preaches herself on going barelegged for the duration, who will wear a six-ounce bathing suit at the beach, who feels as deeply humiliated on discovering a half-inch of rayon has dropped beneath her skirt as though a total stranger had opened her bathroom door just as she'd climbed out of the tub?

Midnight Liquor Store

Closing To Be Asked

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—City and county officials here will ask liquor dealers to close at midnight in an effort to halt drunkenness and disorder.

They reached this decision yesterday after a conference with Mayor J. M. Woodall on the problem of civilian-military co-operation in law enforcement.

The officials will select 25 whiskey retailers and invite them to a conference to discuss the midnight closing.

Safety Commissioner John B. Kennedy and Solicitor W. Inman Gurry told the meeting that soldiers arrested for violating laws and turned over to Camp Gordon officers, returned to town the next night to be arrested again for subsequent violations.

SCRAP FILE MOUNTS.

BAXLEY, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Altamaha Post No. 26, American Legion, has given for scrap use the two mounted German machine guns and shells that were on the courthouse square, the Rev. John A. Godfrey making the presentation speech.

MAYBE HE DOESN'T KNOW "ILLITERATE" DEFINITION

Editor, Constitution: Many famous phrases and statements have gone down in history for the clear reasoning they express, but one of the greatest of these made by our great Governor seems to have been overlooked.

The occasion was the class reunions at the University of Georgia in June, 1940. The Governor, then a private citizen, spoke for his class, 1910.

The momentous pronouncement began with an attack on "them Yankee statisticians up in Washington" who said that Georgia is the most illiterate state in the United States but they're wrong. They fix up those figures just to make it look that way. But I can prove they're wrong. In the first place I say they're wrong. Besides Georgia had the first chartered university and the first women's college in the world. Due to the fact that Georgia had these units of higher education before anybody else is proof enough that we are not the most illiterate state in the Union."

How he expected that large gathering of university alumni and faculty to follow that line of reasoning is beyond me. Maybe it was the barbecue that was served at the affair that gave him a severe attack of indigestion.

Gallup Poll Reveals:

Civilian Mobilization Favored

By GEORGE GALLUP.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 3.—The American public was five months ahead of congress in favoring the selective service draft, and it is today even further ahead on the question of mobilizing civilian man power for war industries.

Canada put into effect this week a civilian mobilization program in which, in basic outline, the American public was ready to accept as early as last March.

A man power mobilization bill is now being worked up in Washington, and, according to some reports, may be submitted to congress in the near future, perhaps directly after the November elections. The public, which has been ahead of congress and the administration on virtually every major program connected with the war, was ready for such a bill six months ago, judging by Institute surveys of public opinion.

The Institute conducted in March a study which found a majority of nearly two to one in favor of man power mobilization, and a subsequent study reported in August found an even larger majority in favor of compulsory shifting of workers from non-war industries to war factories.

March, 1942.

"Should all men and women over 18 who are not already in military service be required to register with the government for some kind of civilian defense or war work?"

Yes 82%
No 12%
Undecided 6%

"After finding out what each person can do, should the government have the power to tell each citizen what to do as his part in the war effort and require him or her to do it?"

Yes 61%
No 32%
Undecided 7%

August, 1942.

"Do you think a law should be passed giving the government the right to require workers not employed in war industries to take jobs in war industries?"

Yes 71%
No 23%
Undecided 6%

Those proposals, on which the public's affirmative vote was so overwhelming, embody the main outlines of the regulations which Canada has put into effect—a program which calls for registration of all employable persons and which controls the type of work they may do.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The federal grand jury for the middle Georgia district has indicted 104 men for draft evasion.

Most of those named were Negroes. Court officials said it was the first time indictments on any charge had exceeded the number of indictments returned for bootlegging. The grand jury returned only 57 cases of liquor law violations.

'Wear Own Collar,' Arnall Replies To H.B. Edwards' Query

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

STATENVILLE, Ga., Sept. 3.—Ellis Arnall's supporters in Echols county could hardly believe their ears or their eyes today when they turned to view a man, on the outskirts of the crowd, who had politely asked permission to propound a question for Arnall.

They looked—and, of all things—the mild-mannered interrogator, with a problem on what seemed to be a calm and peaceful mind, was none other than old roaring "Hell Bent" Edwards, of Valdosta, exiled by Talmadge for his tendency toward profanity in his public addresses.

There stood "Hell Bent" with his hand uplifted like a schoolboy, asking Ellis Arnall:

"I would like to ask a question," Arnall replied:

"Go ahead, Mr. Edwards."

"Don't have to answer," Arnall said. "I haven't been for Talmadge since he called out the militia. Even if I were for him today, I'd have to leave him when I read how many of his able and intelligent supporters are leaving him day by day. Those men have judgment and they must have reasons for quitting the man who has forgotten his promises to the people."

Arnall promised the voters of Echols county he'd never give a Valdosta man credit for carrying the voting strength of schools in his hip pocket.

The crowd cheered. Arnall was given ovation after ovation as he described his platform to restore the school system of Georgia; his pledges for a general reorganization of Georgia's government that will return the power over state affairs to the people.

Arnall insisted: "Go ahead, please—I'll be glad to answer."

"Hell Bent's" question was: "What are you going to do with Ed Rivers if you're elected?"

Arnall's reply: "Wear No Man's Collar."

"I hope Ed Rivers and all his old friends will support me in my present race. I'll be glad to have the votes of Ed Rivers and his friends. Just as I am glad that I am getting so many votes from old friends of the present Governor."

"But I'll tell you this: 'When I'm elected, I won't wear any man's collar—any man's black bow tie—or any man's red suspenders.' And, Mr. Edwards, if you don't believe me when I tell you that no one else will be Governor when I'm elected—I don't want your vote. If I have to go into office with my hands tied by obligations to anyone—I don't want the job."

"Hell Bent," who had been Talmadge's "hatchet man" in the Talmadge move to wipe out most of Georgia's counties, merely grinned sheepishly when Arnall explained the plot to the Echols county folks. He had no questions to ask, no explanations to offer. He just grinned.

The meeting today, in the heart of Georgia's turpentine belt, drew motorists to Statenville from Homerville, Valdosta and Lakeland.

Strong Arnall Group. Echols county, it was revealed, has never voted against Talmadge, but is strongly organized against him today because through all the years of loyalty, Echols has never been given a road by Talmadge and no Echols citizen has ever received an appointment to any office.

Echols county voters resent Talmadge's assumption that Harley Langdale, of Valdosta, a turpentine distiller, carries the votes of Echols county in his hip pocket and that there's no need to do anything for the county.

"Just take care of Harley—and he'll swing that belt," is the smug Talmadge philosophy. Wrong, this time, and the cure, say the citizens, has been offered too late. Talmadge agents are in Echols today promising to build two roads through the county and a convict camp—now at Douglas, Ga.

School Dismissed. Walter M. Prescott, turpentine man of Berrien and Lowndes counties, said today: "I'm voting against Talmadge my first time. I cannot follow him any longer."

A. M. (Billy) Culbreth, another turpentine leader, said: "All the turpentine operators from seven counties are 90 per cent behind Ellis Arnall."

High school was dismissed in Statenville today for the Ellis Arnall speaking. Oble Tomlinson, school superintendent of the city,

Three More Troopers Resign

"nothing more than a political organization." "I have seen with my own eyes employees of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation at the headquarters of the State Highway Patrol in Atlanta making duplicates at the state's expense of a picture taken of the draft board officials at Athens, Ga., together with Negro draftees," Pope's statement said.

"I also know that the Governor of our state is conducting his campaign on gasoline belonging to the Georgia State Patrol. I myself filled up his campaign car at the Georgia State Patrol headquarters in Americus, Ga., on the day when he spoke at Arlington, Ga., with State Highway Patrol gasoline.

Campaign Speech. "The car that the Governor was traveling in at the time was driven by a member of the Georgia State Highway Patrol and the Governor was returning from Arlington, Ga., to Atlanta, after having made a campaign speech at Arlington on the same day. The car in which the Governor was traveling had no marks of identification on it and I do not know to whom the car belonged, but the license plate was issued to the investigation unit of the patrol."

Other members of the patrol who have resigned in protest of political pressure for campaign funds had been demanded. Statements of the troopers who quit yesterday follow:

In person appeared the undersigned authority, Theron Aldridge, who first being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is a trooper in the Georgia State Patrol, having entered the patrol 15 months ago, under the present administration and has continued as a trooper since that time.

At the time I entered the service as a patrolman that department had been operated to the best interest of the people of Georgia, and on efficiency, but soon after I became connected with the patrol, the department was thrown into politics and the efficiency of the patrol was torn down and the organization largely destroyed.

About four or five weeks ago I was told by my district commanding officer that I would be expected to kick in one-half of my salary for one month which would amount to about $50. This I refused to do.

I have a family to support and I felt that as long as I was doing my duty to the state that I should not be compelled to give up part of my salary. In doing this I knew that this demand was a violation of the law which set up the state patrol.

Since the department was torn with politics and its usefulness destroyed, and further since I knew that such members of the patrol who would not or could not contribute would be fired after election, as a matter of self-respect I decided to resign immediately, which I have done.

Theron Aldridge. Sworn to and subscribed before me this September 2, 1942. SAM G. DETTLEBACH, Notary Public, Georgia, State at Large.

Americus, Georgia, September 3, 1942. Major John E. Goodwin, Commissioner, Department of Public Safety, State of Georgia, Atlanta, Ga.

My Dear Major Goodwin: I herewith submit my resignation as a member of the Georgia State Patrol to become effective immediately.

I am handing you this resignation for several reasons. Principally for the reason that during the past 18 months I have seen the State Highway Patrol disintegrate from an efficient organization to nothing more than a political organization and I do not care to remain as a member of such an organization longer.

I have seen with my own eyes employees of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation at the headquarters of the State Highway Patrol in Atlanta making duplicates at the state's expense of a picture taken of the draft board officials at Athens, Georgia, together with Negro draftees. I also know that the Governor of the state is conducting his campaign on gasoline belonging to the Georgia State Patrol. I myself filled up his campaign car at the Georgia State Patrol headquarters in Americus, Georgia, on the day when he spoke at Arlington, Georgia, with State Highway Patrol gasoline.

The car that the Governor was traveling in at the time was being driven by a member of the Georgia State Highway Patrol and the Governor was returning from Arlington, Georgia, to Atlanta, after having made a campaign speech at Arlington, Georgia, on that same day. The car in which the Governor was traveling had no marks of identification on it, and I do not know to whom the car belonged, but the license plate was issued to the investigation unit of the patrol.

At the time I filled the tank of the car in which the Governor was traveling with State Highway Patrol gasoline, I was asked by Lieutenant Wilson, who was driving the car and who is a member of the state patrol, what car number should be put on my gasoline report showing in which car the gasoline was placed. Lieutenant Wilson stated to merely write on the report that the car was a red Pontiac and he did not give me any number.

At least five state-owned cars belonging to the Georgia State Patrol. I myself filled up his campaign car at the Georgia State Patrol headquarters in Americus, Georgia, on the day when he spoke at Arlington, Georgia, with State Highway Patrol gasoline.

In the afternoon of July 4, 1942, a member of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation carried to Moultrie, Georgia, to hear the Governor's opening speech a group of people in his own private car. He then called the State Patrol headquarters in Atlanta and they directed him to let his car be towed to the State Highway Patrol car. This car was used to transport people who had been to a political meeting of the Governor at Moultrie, Georgia, and state gasoline was used to transport them from Americus to Atlanta.

I resent the pressure that has been placed upon me and other members of the State Patrol to contribute to Governor Talmadge's campaign expense in violation of the law of Georgia. An official of the State Revenue Department called me over the telephone at my home in Americus, Georgia, and told me that he wanted me to contribute to the campaign expense of Governor Talmadge. I refused and stated that it was a violation of the law to do so and I could not contribute. A few days later a state employee approached me with a letter from this same official directing him to call on me and insist upon a contribution and to inform me that he would personally make a report to the Governor in respect to the matter on the following Tuesday and I again refused.

I know that there is a large number of good men still on the State Highway Patrol. However, under the present system they are unable to render efficient service and are hampered in their work every day. The patrol has become a political organization of Governor Talmadge and I do not care to remain as a member of such an organization and I am submitting this, my resignation, to you to become effective immediately.

Very truly yours, CORPORAL RAY POPE, Georgia State Patrol, Americus, Ga.

Georgia, Thomas County: Personally before the undersigned officer, duly authorized to administer oaths appeared, C. Eugene Tucker, who being duly sworn, deposes and makes the following statement: My name is C. Eugene Tucker. I am a trooper assigned to the Georgia State Highway Patrol, at Thomasville, Georgia. My resignation as such trooper has this day been forwarded to Major John E. Goodwin, head of state patrol but better known as chief of police of Georgia, and I am submitting this, my resignation, to you to become effective immediately.

Had I not needed the job badly I would have resigned many months ago because of the political domination of the department. It is a matter of common knowledge, even to the patrolmen, that the usefulness of the department has been greatly curtailed on account of the interference by Governor Talmadge and his henchmen.

At 3 a. m. on August 16, 1942, while in performance of my sworn duty I made a case against a person for drunken driving of automobile on highway. The subject was arrested and warrant lodged with proper authorities. Tuesday afternoon following, August 18, 1942, a man introducing himself as Johnny Nahara, of Douglas, Ga., appeared at patrol headquarters in Thomasville and requested to talk to me about case above mentioned. I talked with Nahara who demanded that I reduce the charges of drunken driving. I told Nahara that I could not reduce the charges. He, Nahara, then asked if I knew who he was. I told him no and that it did not make any difference who he might be. He stated that he was the same Nahara, chief of police of Georgia, who had helped Cowboy Wood with tear gas at Statesboro, and that he had recently beat up six Tech students in the Ansley hotel in Atlanta because they were against Talmadge. I still refused to reduce the charges. Nahara stated that he would hear more about the matter.

On night of August 30, 1942, at 8 p. m. I received a radio call to report at patrol headquarters in Atlanta on the morning of August 31, 1942, at 8:30.

Prior to my visit to Atlanta this Nahara contacted me three times, demanding that I reduce the charges. Each time I refused. Nahara last called at midnight on August 31, 1942, long distance from Albany, Ga., stating that he had been with the Governor and Major Goodwin all day Saturday and Sunday and that I would be called to Atlanta soon.

On morning of August 31, 1942, I was driven to Atlanta and the patrol headquarters in a patrol car, a distance of 240 miles, during which trip a tire and tube were ruined and much gas consumed, all at state's expense. The result of my trip to Atlanta was that I was handed an order transferring me immediately to Telfair county. The Governor's home county. There was no conclusion I could draw except that this Nahara, who I have since learned is a racketeer at Douglas, has used his influence to move me from Thomasville so that I could not be present at trial of the case.

Rather than subject my con-belonging to the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, a division of the Department of Public Safety, were used by members of the Georgia State Patrol and members of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation to haul people to Moultrie, Ga., to hear the Governor's opening speech in the present campaign for Governor. I saw these five cars myself being used to transport people to this political gathering using the State Patrol gasoline and oil. This also consumed tires which were used for state police work and the cars, tires and gasoline were used for the purpose of transporting people to the Governor's political gathering.

In the afternoon of July 4, 1942, a member of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation carried to Moultrie, Georgia, to hear the Governor's opening speech a group of people in his own private car. He then called the State Patrol headquarters in Atlanta and they directed him to let his car be towed to the State Highway Patrol car. He stated that he was the same Nahara, chief of police of Georgia, who had helped Cowboy Wood with tear gas at Statesboro, and that he had recently beat up six Tech students in the Ansley hotel in Atlanta because they were against Talmadge. I still refused to reduce the charges. Nahara stated that he would hear more about the matter.

On night of August 30, 1942, at 8 p. m. I received a radio call to report at patrol headquarters in Atlanta on the morning of August 31, 1942, at 8:30.

Prior to my visit to Atlanta this Nahara contacted me three times, demanding that I reduce the charges. Each time I refused. Nahara last called at midnight on August 31, 1942, long distance from Albany, Ga., stating that he had been with the Governor and Major Goodwin all day Saturday and Sunday and that I would be called to Atlanta soon.

On morning of August 31, 1942, I was driven to Atlanta and the patrol headquarters in a patrol car, a distance of 240 miles, during which trip a tire and tube were ruined and much gas consumed, all at state's expense. The result of my trip to Atlanta was that I was handed an order transferring me immediately to Telfair county. The Governor's home county. There was no conclusion I could draw except that this Nahara, who I have since learned is a racketeer at Douglas, has used his influence to move me from Thomasville so that I could not be present at trial of the case.

Rather than subject my conscience to such subversive underhand tactics, I decided to resign. I further swear, that recently, during the present campaign, that W. Price Reed, deputy patrol commissioner, requested that I make a contribution of one pay check to the Talmadge campaign fund. I refused to contribute as I am making only enough to live on.

This affidavit is made so that the people of Georgia and my friends over the state may know the manner in which the patrol is operated and controlled.

Kidneys May Need Help to Clean Out Excess Acids

If you're feeling out of sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swelling, Nervousness, Headaches, Pains, Distress, Cries Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Cold, working too hard, or over-exercising may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they cannot eliminate the wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess acids. The kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubules or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get clogged with acids.

Sixteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in the simplest way: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may help you feel next younger.

Guaranteed Trial Offer Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work, helping the Kidneys flush out excess acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. An iron clad guarantee insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. Get Cystex from your druggist today for only 35¢.

Author's Note: Cystex is produced under the direction of a licensed physician for The Knott Co., one of the largest drug companies in the world with laboratory connections in the U.S.A., Canada, England, Australia and South America. The guarantee of money back unless satisfied is enforced 100% and is a dependable form of assurance to all users of Cystex.

Talmadge Loses Powerful Supporter In Ben Hill County

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

FITZGERALD, Ga., Sept. 3.—South Georgia political observers today saw the Talmadge stronghold falling apart in its own backyard, with the resignation of Dr. Will S. Haile as a lieutenant colonel on the staff of Governor Talmadge.

Candidate May Obtain Recount More Easily

Act Gives Same Privilege To Person Seeking State, District Office.

Should a dispute develop over the outcome of any of the election contests in the September 9 primary, a recount of the ballots may be obtained more easily than ever before.

The new procedure is set forth in legislation adopted by the last general assembly. The act was recommended by Governor Talmadge, who contended that he was unfairly denied a recount in his unsuccessful race for the U. S. senate in 1938.

In next week's primary, any defeated candidate who receives one-third of the total votes cast in any county has the right to demand a recount. The same privilege is accorded any defeated candidate for state, national or district office who failed to get one-third of the total vote in a county, or district, but who receives one-third as many votes as the leading candidate and has a "bona fide" contention that a recount in any county would change the announced result.

To Obtain Recount.
A recount was much more difficult to obtain under the previous law because the defeated candidate had to specify the votes he was challenging.

Now, the party authorities must grant a recount when a demand is filed properly, fixing a time and place, and giving all candidates not less than 48 hours' notice. The defeated and the successful candidates have the right to name one member each of a committee making the recount.

The judge of the superior court in the adjoining judicial circuit is the third member of the committee. If the circuit has more than one superior court judge, the senior judge shall serve.

If a defeated candidate is a resident of the county in which he is contesting the vote, he must make a written demand for a recount to the county Democratic chairman within 48 hours of the declaration of the result. In the case of a nonresident, the demand must be filed within 96 hours, either by the defeated candidate or a resident of the county whom he may designate.

With the demand he must set forth the total number of votes cast, the number he received and a statement that he believes a recount would change the outcome in the county.

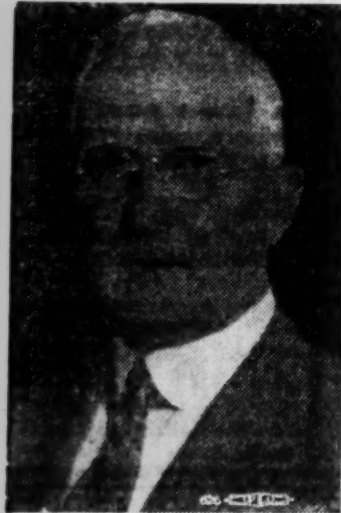

The recount committee, within 48 hours of its appointment, must meet and proceed with its tabulation unless it wishes to grant a postponement. It is empowered to subpoena witnesses and records and to hold persons in contempt for refusing to testify or produce records.

If a recount is demanded, the tally sheets, registration lists, ballots and other election papers are to be locked up by the county official responsible for custody of the election records, usually the ordinary, and no one is to be allowed to inspect them until they are opened in the presence of the committee.

Within 24 hours of completing its recount, the committee must file a written report with party officials. The report is final and supercedes any previously announced result contrary to its findings.

The candidate who would benefit by the committee report is given the right of mandamus if the county executive committee or other party authority should decline to accept the committee decision and jurisdiction is conferred on the superior courts.

Timely Burglars Dart for Scooters

Atlanta police are searching for thieves with a flair for watches, bows and arrows and motor scooters.

Sixteen watches, valued at $1,500, have disappeared from the Claude S. Bennett Company on Peachtree street in recent weeks, reports show.

A thief broke into the G. W. Morris Recreation Club Tuesday night and escaped with four bows, 200 arrows, an archery glove and $4 cash. A third took a motor scooter Wednesday belonging to Paul Gottlieb, of 1720 North Spring road.

Ramspeck To Talk On Radio Tonight

Congressman Robert Ramspeck, candidate for re-election as representative from the fifth Georgia district, will devote a portion of his broadcast over station WSB at 7:30 o'clock tonight to a discussion of the retirement act, better known as the "Pension-for-Congress" bill. "So thoroughly misunderstood were the provisions of this legislation that I think it proper to explain, had it been enacted, just what this bill would have provided, how the funds would have accumulated, and the qualifications for participation in its benefits," Ramspeck said.

1,500 Brave Rain To Hear Arnall Speak

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

BLACKSHEAR, Ga., Sept. 3.—Despite an all-day downpour of rain which did not slacken until an hour before the time for his speech, more than 1,500 residents of Pierce and adjoining counties heard Gubernatorial Candidate Ellis Arnall here this afternoon.

The young attorney general drew deafening applause when he told his attentive audience that the first plank in his platform called for his unstinted and aggressive support of President Roosevelt in his prosecution of the war effort.

Kirk Suttive, editor of the Blackshear Times, acted as master of ceremonies and Arnall was introduced by S. F. Memory, former state senator and present attorney for Pierce county.

Miss Doris King, resident of Blackshear, and student at Georgia State Woman's College at Valdosta, made a short talk in which she urged the voters to vote for and support Ellis Arnall in order that the state's schools and colleges might be saved from the destructive hand of Talmadgeism.

Arnall told the large number of farmers present he was going to see that out-of-state markets were developed for their produce and he was loudly applauded when he declared and "I'm going to see that Georgia is no longer the dumping ground for sorry, cheap seed."

Referring to the situation that brought about the discrediting of Georgia's schools, Arnall said, "I know that every good Georgian is interested in education and the proudest parents I have ever met are those who have struggled and saved and deprived themselves of actual necessities in order to give their children an education."

He assured his audience that one of his first acts after taking the oath of office of Governor will be to remove from the University of Georgia and other schools the humiliation in which they have been placed as a result of the dictatorial policies of "Georgia's Little Caesar."

Many women were in the large crowd that heard the attorney general. Seated on the speakers' platform were representatives from each precinct in the county, together with citizens from nearby counties.

Poll Workers Told Procedure For Primary

Voters Registered by Streets, Not by Names, Registrars Point Out.

Final instructions regarding the Democratic primary of September 9 were given 500 poll workers yesterday at a meeting at the Fulton county courthouse. New election procedure was explained by Neal Leach, chairman of the county Democratic committee, and by Mrs. J. L. Garmon, registrar of voters.

Both speakers emphasized voters were now registered according to the streets on which they live rather than by names. A voter must sign an application for a ballot at the proper polling place. Before he obtains his ballot, the clerk compares the signature on the application with that on his registration card.

Leach announced voting in College Park would take place at the new city auditorium instead of at the fire station, as previously stated.

Kinhwa Ringed By Chinese in Hard Fighting

Japs Reinforce Troops Guarding One of Last Good Bases.

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Chinese armies pushing the Japanese back in Chekiang province have encircled Kinhwa, provisional capital and one of the last good air bases in the province held by the Japanese, and are heavily engaged with reinforced Japanese troops, the Chinese reported tonight.

A front-line dispatch of the Central News Agency said the Chinese had drawn their ring about Kinhwa today.

The high command also announced that Lupao, an important Kwangtung province highway and river center about 25 miles north-west of Canton, had been recaptured from the Japanese last Tuesday.

The communique did not mention Kiangsi province, where the Chinese have been reported fighting in the outskirts of Nanchang, capital of the province, but unofficial reports said the Chinese were making a determined attempt to recapture the city.

U-Boat Raiders Claim 3 More British Vessels

By The Associated Press.

Disclosure of the loss of three more British merchantmen to undersea raiders in the Atlantic was made yesterday.

Sinking of one British cargo vessel in the Caribbean in mid-August, 15 miles from land, was announced by the Navy. Three seamen perished in the torpedo explosion, but 41 survivors were picked up some time after the encounter by a British naval vessel, and landed at a large Caribbean island.

The rescued seamen told of waiting for nine hours in the vicinity of the stricken vessel, hoping she might remain afloat, but the ship finally settled to the bottom and her crew members rowed away toward land.

The two other British merchantmen—the 4,393-ton Penrose and the 4,170-ton Hollinside—were torpedoed and sunk out of a five-ship convoy off Portugal late last Wednesday, announcements from Lisbon revealed. Reports said one submarine made the foray, but did not disclose whether any of the three remaining vessels in the convoy were attacked.

Five of the 45-man crew aboard the Penrose were lost. The Hollinside was reported to have been carrying a crew of 46 men, in addition to 10 survivors from the Avila Star, a 14,443-ton British passenger ship torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine off the Azores July 5.

The Lisbon announcement made no mention of fatalities in the Hollinside sinking.

Sinking of Allied and neutral merchantmen off the Azores and European and African coasts is not included in the Associated Press count of announced western Atlantic sinkings, but the Caribbean sinking boosted the total to 453 craft.

Additional dispatches from Lisbon disclosed that the submarine sinking of the 5,941-ton British freighter Clan MacWhirter—correctly reported last Wednesday—as the Clan McClyster—claimed the lives of the ship's captain and radio operator. The remaining 83 crew members were picked up.

Rommel Seen Trying for Best Attack Position

German Retreat Hurried Along by Shells From British.

By EDMOND KENNEDY.

WITH THE ALLIED FORCES IN EGYPT'S WESTERN DESERT, Sept. 3.—(AP)—German tank columns withdrew this morning from part of the stove-pipe shaped area into which they had been pushing since dawn Monday.

While the harassing the Germans have received from British armor and artillery may have caused this withdrawal, there's no doubt the real object of Marshal Erwin Rommel's present movements is to get into the best position for an attack.

From a desert ridge we could see the enemy tanks pulling back and the British armor creeping up to the positions the enemy had abandoned.

An occasional shell came from the British batteries behind us to hurry the Germans along a little. There have been several minor clashes in the past 24 hours.

One unit shot up 400 Italians, taking two prisoners. A second killed 30 Italians in another encounter and took some prisoners.

We were camped under a lone palm tree near the beach last night. At 2 a. m. Messerschmitts spotted us in the moonlight and cut a path of machinegun bullets which missed our beds by two feet.

This chapter has the distinction of being the second in the state to adopt a young lady for training as nurse for the war emergency, and arrangements are being made for her to enter training immediately. The rummage sale of recent date proved most successful. Other projects are being planned and are under way to carry on the chapter's war activities.

Mrs. Douglas Barbour and Mrs. T. G. Magbee will be co-hostesses for the meeting, and Mrs. Chloe N. Sharp will be in charge of the program. Since it is a special memorial occasion, marking Sidney Lanier's death and the 48th anniversary of the founding of the United Daughters of Confederacy, the program will include songs and poems by Lanier, and a sketch on the colorful career of General John Hunt Morgan.

The birthday of Admiral Raphael Semmes will be observed at a special memorial service to be held on September 17 at the Nurses' Home. At this time crosses of military service will be presented Robert and Henry Yeatman, brothers of Mrs. John S. Black, historian and scrapbook chairman for the chapter.

Bob Benchley Will Show Public "How to Ride a Street Car"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3.—(INS) Only a crusader like Gradwell Sears, head of United Artists, could walk into Hollywood and buy top pictures from a rival studio. His deal with Paramount, which calls for 10 pictures, is unprecedented in the history of movies. He has bought "The Crystal Ball," with Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland, "I Married a Witch," with Frederic March and Veronica Lake, the Harry Sherman production, and Preston Sturges' "Great Without Glory."

I asked Grad to tell me about this deal which has fascinated Hollywood. He explained that until David Selznick, Hunt Stromberg and Jack Benny get going United Artists have no picture ready for their large chain of theaters. "We needed pictures badly and Paramount has so many already made and in the process of production," said the amazing Mr. Sears, "that I put my problem up to them." But why was Paramount so magnanimous? They have their theaters, too. Probably because Barney Balaban and Y. Frank Freeman, heads of Paramount, are farseeing enough to realize the importance to the entire industry in keeping United Artists going.

Certainly sounds snobbish to say that many people have never been on a street car and will, of necessity, now have to ride in them.

By Louella Parsons.

But apparently it is the truth. Especially in southern California, where distances are great, and many people own their own automobiles. I shouldn't think lessons would be necessary on how to ride in a street car, but apparently General Electric Corporation thinks those to whom street cars are new should know. So Bob Benchley is being sought to make a short subject, "How to Ride a Street Car." I could tell the world something about riding on elevated and subway trains in case it's necessary.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The next Hollywood marriage, it is whispered, will in all likelihood be that of the 20th Century-Fox star, Linda Darnell, and Peverell Marley, well-known cameraman. Linda hasn't been particularly happy over certain situations at home, and marriage might be a solution. Marley is much older and has had two previous marriages, although he looks like a juvenile. There is no doubt they are in love and Linda Darnell deserves happiness, for she hasn't had the easiest time in the world these last few months.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Symphony Leader Leopold Stokowski, once all in all to Greta Garbo, and Luise Rainer have discovered each other. The Slapstick Maxie Rosenbloom is together in San Francisco, which is proof the rumor of their separation was only gossip; the Bill Lundigane, Jeanne Cagney romance is flourishing; Bill Tracy, excellent young character actor, joined the Navy this week; June Lang and Dixon Harwin aglow at the Beverly tropics; the Martha Matur-Stevie Brody romance looks like the real thing. Otto Preminger and Arlene Whelan at the Players just before she went east to see her estranged bridegroom, Alex D'Arcy.

Bob Hope will be flown to Alaska in a bomber for the shows he will give there; Alice Faye, at El Paso with Phil Harris, sang "Happy Birthday" to her brother, Bill, over the telephone. That's all for today. See you tomorrow! But Mrs. J. A. Parker, Kirbyville, Texas, says: "Buy a war stamp with your last thin dime, so Doolittle can bomb Tokyo any old time."

Get Back In Shape, Mom!

MY DAY: Help the Workers Get Their Sleep

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—Today at noon, Mrs. Alma Kitchen and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr., together with mothers of men in the armed forces, were on the air, popularizing a slogan which all women will be glad to remember—"A stamp a day for the son who is away." Many a woman may not have a son, but she may have a husband, or a brother, or a sweetheart, or just a boy in whom she is interested. Every stamp she buys, every war bond, is a help to the victory which he is fighting for, and will hasten it, which means lives saved.

No woman today can afford not to be war stamps and war bond-minded. Perhaps the book, "There Were Giants in the Land," published at the suggestion of the war savings staff of the Treasury, may serve to stimulate interest and keep us all constantly busy on one of our jobs, which is to save in order that we may buy bonds and stamps.

Some people think of this purely as a contribution to the government and the war. In reality it is an investment which bears interest and which ten years from now will help us to obtain the very things which we may now go without. Of course, we may sell sooner if we wish. In buying now, we shall be helping our country in the future, as well as helping our boys in the present.

I have a letter from Ohio today which brings up a point which I think worth passing on. My correspondent speaks for the defense workers who are now working at night and have to sleep in the daytime. Many of them live in crowded areas, and they find that radios turned on full in near-by apartments tend to make it difficult to sleep.

My correspondent's suggestion is that, every now and then over the air, we should be reminded to keep our radios turned low for our own enjoyment, and that by doing so, we shall make it possible for better work to go forward in the factories.

Last night the Dutch and U. S. S. R. delegates to the International Student Service Assembly here dined with me. We had a very interesting time, though I find that being unable to talk directly to a person is a great drawback. I never before had realized what a help it would be if all of us learned, in addition to our own language, one universal tongue. I think I shall work more enthusiastically in the future for a common language as one of the contributions to a peaceful world.

There is something very charming to me about the young Russian woman, Junior Lieutenant Liudmila Pavlichenko. She has suffered, as have all these young people, and is suffering something which is universal and binds all the world together regardless of language.

A Girl's Best "Line" Is to Let Boy Assume A Protective Attitude

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

It seems I can't meet boys like other girls. I am always afraid to be with them. But there is one boy I have gone with for almost a year and he got mad at me for something I did. We were coming back from a show with my sister and a girl friend. This boy and a friend were also coming home, and he asked us if we were lonely going along alone. I said that never in this world would I ever be lonely any more. His boy friend said that what I said was mad, but Dixie, I did not mean to do this, for I think lots of him. But if he wants to get mad at a little thing like that, what can I do? What advice can you give me about meeting boys and what would I do when they ask for a date? Or to take me to a movie?

I. L. A.

Always remember that the boys like to think that they are protecting the girls and that the girls are depending upon them for protection. So when the boy asked you if you weren't lonely, the thing for you to have said was that you were afraid to be out late and you wanted him to walk home with you. That is what he wanted you to say and that is what he expected. When you didn't respond to his "lead" it irritated him and that is why it made him mad. Your remark led him to believe that you had another beau who would forever keep you from being lonely. Your answer certainly implied this.

Since you have been going with him for a year, I think that you know him well enough to give him a call some time and ask him to come by the house. Let him know that you like him and prefer being with him above others. This can be done by selecting him to go places with you and by letting him know that you depend upon him. There is no need to be afraid of the boys and of going out and having a nice time. When they ask you for a date, if you think you would enjoy going out, give it to them and go on and have fun.

MOTHER SHOULD ASSERT HERSELF

Dear Dixie:

What is a mother to do with a daughter who puts her worries on her mother? And the mother should take it and say nothing? The grandchildren are left on me from dawn to dusk, with never a day off, and the worst part of it all is, the mother has a child who takes care of her and the daughter never fails to get it in some way. Now, grandmother is tired of being pinned down with the children all of the time and is thinking of going to another town to live, which she thinks will be fair to the children who supports her as well as to herself. Please tell me if mother is right?

T. T. T.

I think that you are exactly right, and the sooner you get out, the better it will be for all concerned. If daughter who imposes upon you knows that she can work so on your sympathies should know better and should be ashamed of herself. If the daughter has other means of taking care of her children, if she pushes them off on you just to free herself from worry, then I do not think she should be a mother. I think she assumes the responsibility of her family.

I think a change now would be to the advantage of all concerned. Your absence would make you better appreciated by all. Your child who is giving you money for support does not expect you to give it to someone else, not even your own child. A break away now would give you an entirely new lease on life, and would tend to give you morale a boost. And it would also make the child who is imposing so upon your nature, a more appreciative person and make her realize that mother cannot be trampled upon. I think you are exactly right about going away, and I am all for you doing this.

Points for Parents

This

Mother: "Now that school is about to start, it's time for us to plan together for the changes we'll have to make in our time schedules and our division of home responsibilities."

Not This

Mother: "I'm going to have you go to bed earlier as soon as school starts and I'm planning for you two children to wash and wipe the dishes every evening and on Saturdays."

Potassium Chloride for Asthma Victims

same remedy, potassium, brings such prompt relief in other manifestations of allergy, such as hives, hyperesthetic rhinitis, hay fever and no apparent effect in other instances of the same type of trouble.

My present notion about it is that calcium and vitamin D tend to correct the nutritional deficiency of which true spasmodic asthma, hay fever, hyperesthetic rhinitis or rhinorrhea, hives, some cases of angioneurotic edema (giant hives) are manifestations. Potassium, when it works at all, seems to bring temporary and only temporary relief to the trouble, that is, it seems to relieve the symptoms for the time being. So far as I know, this symptomatic relief is all that potassium can give, and it has no prophylactic, preventive or corrective value.

So I advise sufferers from asthma, recurring hives, hay fever (either true hay fever or spurious "hay fever" occurring out of season when no pollen is in the air, as in midwinter in the north), attacks of angioneurotic edema, recurring eczema, or other manifestations of allergy, to supplement the daily diet with additional calcium in one form or another and a sufficient amount of vitamin D to insure its assimilation and utilization. And I advise such sufferers to keep on hand a few 10-grain tablets of soluble potassium chloride, and take one such tablet dissolved in a glassful of water whenever the trouble comes on, and a second 10-grain dose in the same way an hour or two later. If this brings some relief, but not complete relief a third or a fourth dose may be taken in a few hours. Potassium chloride is practically harmless in any circumstance, even if it fails to give relief. Just how it relieves the symptoms or manifestations of allergy, I don't know. Physiologists believe adrenalin liberates potassium, and when the body tissues have been depleted of potassium the adrenalin no longer produces its effect. Perhaps the dose or two of potassium chloride complements or supplements the action of the adrenalin produced by its own adrenal glands. All I know is that it won't do any harm.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Large Order.

I am 61 years old, have been anemic for years, have to take shots to keep my blood up, terribly constipated, spastic colon, very rapid heart, very nervous.

(A. B.)

Answer—You ask my advice. I advise you to consult a physician—but not in the way you come at me with a ready-made diagnosis. Don't presume to tell the doctor you are anemic or that you have a spastic colon. Instead, try to tell him what your chief complaints are—what ache, pain or distress you feel when, where, for how long, etc., and leave it to the doctor to arrive at his own opinion as to what ails you.

Hay Fever.

Quite some time ago (which may mean a week, a year or 20 years) I wrote for your pamphlet on hay fever and tried the potassium as recommended. This proved marvelously effective and also brought great relief in the case of my son. (Mrs. J. W. J.)

Answer—Thank you, ma'am. The pamphlet on "Hay Fever" is available to anyone who asks for it and incloses a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Return envelopes addressed "City" or "Local" are likely to end up in our private Dead Letter Office.

Elizabeth and Buster Morgan Organize Defense Juniors

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • A NUMBER OF MEMBERS of the younger social set, whose ages average 9 or 10 years, are not to be outdone by their elders when it comes to aiding in the war effort. Enthusiastic about actively sharing in defense work, they are as tireless as Trojans, and a group of them even have banded themselves into the Junior Defense Club. It was recently organized by Elizabeth and Buster Morgan, the enterprising young children of Henry and Piggie Palmour Morgan.

Membership in the club is patriotically confined to youngsters living in the same neighborhood, so that transportation to meetings is unnecessary. Besides Elizabeth and Buster, the club includes Kathryn and Elwyn Tomlinson, Elizabeth Worley, Elaine and Richard Courts, Laura Margaret Hoppe, Catherine Miller, Betty Meriwether, Florence Monroe, Bobby Vance, Willis Everett and Relia Ann Stephens.

They are divided into two groups, those who may cross the street alone and those who are too young to do so. You see, they canvass the entire neighborhood to collect scrap material, the club's major project, and crossing the street is sometimes necessary. Most of them possess wagons, and these have been pressed into service as the means of transporting the scrap.

Their first scouting trip resulted in the collection of one fruit jar rubber, which was lost before they returned, hot and tired, to the starting point. This was an incident that would have discouraged their elders into disbandment, but it served to make these youngsters even more determined to carry on their efforts.

The result has been amazing, considering the short time they have been organized. To date they have collected almost an entire automobile, two large tires, a vacuum cleaner, a broken scale, a miniature typewriter, yards of hose, and a variety of other material. Nothing is too large or too small for them to add to the heap, which even includes the tiny rubber tops from three eye-droppers!

The members meet every Tuesday and Friday at the Morgan home on Peachtree Battle avenue, where they are served refreshments following the day's scouting. The meetings are held in their three-room clubhouse, formerly used as a dollhouse, and which is furnished with small-scale maple furniture. The sitting room is reserved for the official gatherings, while another of the rooms is used for storing the scrap until it is turned over to the proper authorities.

Camp Fire Girls Dedicate Buildings

Three new structures, including a staff house, dock and a bulletin board were dedicated with appropriate ceremonies at Camp Toccoa this summer. Mrs. Virginia Beals, executive secretary of Camp Fire Girls, was largely responsible for the staff house, used for staff meetings and by counselors on free afternoons. The building has been christened "Manulola," which means to be a trustworthy friend, in honor of Mrs. Beals and dedicated to the spirit of good counseling.

At the dedicatory exercises Miss Flo Finney read "On Friends," from the "Prophet" by Gibran. Miss Gladys Pratt, head counselor of Keona, read the dedication and Miss Hazel McDonald christened the building. Misses Janice and Joe Little played a violin duet, after which the staff kept open house.

The dock and canoe slide on Lake Tawasi were designed by Miss Mary Elizabeth Pennock, who has supervised the waterfront for two seasons. At an impressive water pageant, under the direction of Laura Lee Willis, the dock was dedicated to Miss Pennock and christened "Natinka," the pine tree, which is her Indian name in Camp Fire. The pageant assembled delegates from the 26 Allied nations, after which a swimming meet was held.

The pageant was concluded by 26 swimmers carrying the flags of the Allied nations in "V" formation while Miss Lida Wallis, as the Statue of Liberty, was rowed in a canoe to the center of the "V."

The new bulletin board, an elaborate structure with a roof and spaces for dioramas as well as for notices, is the gift of the Idaho group, of which Mrs. R. P. Seitzinger is guard. For the dedication exercises, the bulletin board was decorated with Indian symbols. A bronze plaque bearing the words, "Idaho Group 1925-1942," was mounted on the board. The history of the group was given, and poetry and songs completed the dedication of the bulletin boards to "Friends."

Miss Jane Clay, of Athens, was the maid of honor and was gowned in rose taffeta made with a basque waist, square neck and long full skirt. Her rose tulle veil was caught to her hair with a wreath of sweetheart roses. She carried a nosegay of pastel shaded flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and Richard C. James, of Vidalia, Ga., was the best man. The former was beautifully gowned in white moose-line de sole posed over white satin made with a tight-fitting basque waist and a full skirt ending in a short train. The drop yoke was edged in lace and her fingertip veil was caught to her hair with lilacs of the valley, and on to a heart-shaped coronet. She wore a strand of tiny pearls which her sisters, Mrs. Charles Outlaw and Mrs. L'Roy Spoon, wore at their weddings. She carried a white satin prayer book showered with swainsons and orchids, which belonged to her great-great grandfather, William Warren, in 1807.

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

The Mental Side Mental attitude has a profound influence in sports. One is forced to wonder now if Bill Seinoth would have won 23 games if opponents had known earlier how upset he gets when a team deliberately bunts on him.

Seinoth tried to make it appear that the Crackers' success against him in one game was just one of those things. And so he begged for a pitching assignment in the closing double-header, challenged the Crackers publicly.

First thing that happened he fumbled a bunt and the Crackers scored a run. There was no wide margin of victory at the end, but the Crackers beat him again. They could probably beat him every time he pitched. It's in his mind.

On the other hand, the Crackers have gained confidence. They feel all they have to do to win is to bunt the big left-hander a few times. Let a team get an idea like this and it's tough on the opposition.

And speaking of mental attitude, have you forgotten how your golf partner, always helpful, never failed to remind you about the trees, the lake or a certain sand trap?

There is a certain pro in Atlanta who's ruined if anybody mentions the word "shank."

Or at least the suggestion used to give Chick Ridley a lot of trouble.

Perspective A most disturbing thing for a writer is to be so close to a good story that he doesn't realize its true value.

Such a thing happened not long ago to Charles (Pie) Dufour, who used to be a star sports man on the Item and now handles a splendid sports program for radio station WDSU.

Jax Brewing Company girls—the company for which Dufour works—have a most unusual softball team, famous nationally.

But it was a case with Pie of not being able to see the forest for the trees. It was no reflection on him that a Chicago writer saw the possibilities and sold a story to the Post.

Frequently writers in other sections of the country will be the first to have significant stories, whereas it would seem logical that the writing men who are on the ground would be tipped off.

One profound example happened after the Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans a couple of years ago.

Frank Leahy had just finished another great year at Boston College, and Notre Dame was greatly interested in his services.

When the story was first printed in Atlanta, no stock was put in it.

But before another season came around Leahy was the head coach at Notre Dame.

Tackle Shortage There seems to be a rather acute shortage of tackles in the Southeastern Conference. Tulane has maybe two, one really first rate. Tennessee seems to be about out. Ole Miss is moaning. Georgia Tech lost the best prospect in Leonard, and Georgia appears to have less than enough.

But Alabama is well heeled. So is Mississippi State. No loud cries of alarm there. Or if there is any shedding of tears they'll belong to the crocodile species.

On a radio program with Dufour, who had checked into the matter most thoroughly, the general lack of men for one position—tackles—was revealed as most unusual.

Seems to run in cycles.

Tulane is overrun with fine backs. The Wave might be able to field as fine a combination as any other team in the conference.

But Little Monk Simon isn't kidding when he says he has troubles in the line. And if that varsity center, Lawrence Rice, fails to return, there's trouble ahead.

Generally, conference football looks attractive. Plenty of color. More wide open stuff coming up, apparently, than in some time. A lot of good backs figure to be on the loose.

Advance sale is expected to be off, with a great increase in gate sale on a game-by-game proposition. New Orleans looks for a banner year.

They've hit the upgrade in baseball attendance again.

Lookouts Maul Crackers Twice, 4 to 2, 7 to 5

Atlanta Fades In Battle for Playoff Berth

Chattanooga Scores Six Runs in Second Inning To Capture Nightcap.

By JACK TROY.

Constitution Sports Editor.

The Crackers were asleep at the switch and the Chattanooga Choo-Choo roared through Ponce de Leon park on the main line last night.

No sidetrack caught the seventh-place Choo-Choos in either game which ended 4-2 and 7-5.

The Crackers almost had to display genius in collecting the hits they did in some innings without scoring more runs. The Lookouts were out in each game, eight to five in the first, and 12 to 9 in the second.

But the Choo-Choos roared through on more timely hitting and a Cracker misplay here and there. Phil McCullough didn't last the first game but Cathey finished strong.

THE PITCHERS.
Bill Kennedy was the victor in the second game, outlasting Earl McGowan. Emil Lochbaum finished the second game. Loser in the opener was Rene Cortes, who gave up only four hits in seven innings. Nowak finished.

No question about the damage done to the Crackers by the double defeat. In fact, the Choo-Choos may be looked up hereafter as a runaway freight on a downhill grade.

The Crackers are still in the fight for a place in the Shaugnessy playoff, mathematically speaking, but the way is hard, the road is rocky.

The teams will play again tonight, starting at 8:30, and it is likely that Lochbaum will be asked to stop the invading force.

Last night timely hitting would have helped a lot.

FIRST GAME.

The Lookouts scored first on a walk and stolen base by Ortiz and a single by Guerra.

In their half of the second inning the Crackers evened the count on Medak's walk and singles by Smith and Blakeney.

There were three on and none out in the Cracker half of the sixth, O'Brien led off with a single, Deal bunted and O'Brien beat the throw to second, and Scott beat out a bunt. It seemed a cinch the Crackers would score one or two runs. Then Medak's line drive was speared by Olson and Deal was doubled off second. Smith fled to center.

No such adversity on the Lookout side in the seventh, Ortiz singled, Montegudo popped out, Ortiz stole second. Guerra walked. Ventura popped to second for the second out. Olson broke the deadlock with a single, scoring Ortiz. McCullough hit to Mauldin, who fumbled the ball, and Guerra scored.

The Lookouts added to their advantage in the eighth. Nowak, successor of Cortes, walked Ignasiak. Gomez sacrificed and Ortiz tripled to right.

McCullough failed to last the eight, but the Crackers scored only one run. O'Brien walked and Deal doubled. Cathey relieved and personally threw out Scott. Medak walked. Smith forced Deal and O'Brien scored.

Cathey easily retired the Crackers in the ninth.

SECOND GAME.

Ventura started the ball rolling for the Lookouts in the second inning, slapping a single to center. Richards tried to pick him off. Medak missed the throw and Ventura raced to third. Montegudo grounded out. Olson singled to right, scoring Ventura. Kennedy bunted and Olson beat McGowan's throw to second. Stein singled to left and Olson scored. Ignasiak was safe on Mauldin's error. Gomez forced Kennedy at the plate. Ortiz drove in two runs on a belt to right. Guerra singled and two more runs were in. Up for the second time in the inning, Ventura forced Guerra.

There were two runs on the Cracker side in the third. Glock walked, O'Brien doubled and Scott drove both in with a single.

The Crackers scored two more runs on four hits in the fourth. Richards and Blakeney hit safely before McGowan was called out on strikes. Mauldin singled sharply to left, loading the bases. Glock struck out, but O'Brien singled to left, scoring Richards and Blakeney.

Another rally in the sixth produced only one run and three hits. Smith batted for McGowan and led off with a double. Mauldin grounded out. Glock drove a hit past third and O'Brien singled to right, scoring Smith.

MARRIAGE MART.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(AP) Oarsmen call the Philadelphia Girls' Rowing Club "The Matrimonial Club." Doris Starnord, a charter member, becomes a bride Saturday—14th member to wed since the organization was formed in 1938. True to club tradition, she's to marry an oarsman, Bob Brugger, a member of the 1940 national champion eight-oar crew.

Tech Expects To Have Better Pass Defense

Larger Backs To Discourage Aerial Flurries; Squad in Great Physical Shape.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

There's one thing certain—Tech's pass defense isn't going to be as bad as it was last season, if for no other reason than it couldn't be. If you'll just recall how many touchdowns were scored against the Yellow Jackets last season and then figure how many of them came on passes, you'll understand why the pass defense couldn't be any worse.

Time of game, 1:40.

The fault was not with the players or coaches. It was merely the lack of size among such backs as Davey Eldridge, Johnny Bosch and Bobby Sheldon. When a big six-foot, four-inch end came down field to catch a pass, there wasn't much these fellows could do about it except let 'em catch it and then try to make a tackle. This season, because Tech's team is going to be a big one, that won't happen. At least, it shouldn't—even to a dog. With backfield men like Eddie Prokop and Jimmy Luck coming up, the Jackets will be plenty big enough to hold their own on defense. These sophomores will make a lot of mistakes on passes, but they couldn't be consistently as bad as last year's team even if they tried.

The well-conditioned Techs went through their third day of practice yesterday and their excellent physical shape caused fans to wonder whether Coach Alex might not order a little scrimmaging for his boys about Saturday. However, it is doubtful, for Tech usually waits until near the end of the second week of drills before entering into serious rough work.

Then, too, the Jackets must be careful of injuries as their opening game against Auburn is a week earlier than they usually open.

The election of Jack Marshall as captain of the team is a well-deserved tribute to a quiet, hard-working boy who was never a great star at Fulton.

Lieutenant Billy Gibson, of the U. S. Army Air Corps and alternate captain of the Tech Orange Bowl team, worked a bit with the boys Wednesday. He is on a short leave from his flying duties.

Cochrane Ordered To Active Duty

SUMMIT, N. J., Sept. 3.—(AP) Welterweight Champion Freddie (Red) Cochrane, on leave from the Navy to fight Fritz Zivic in a nontitle tussle in Madison Square Garden September 10, revealed today that he has been ordered to active duty by the Navy on September 12.

He disclosed that the San Diego Naval station, where he has been stationed the past several months, had notified him to appear at the New York Naval base a week from Saturday for transfer to sea duty. As a result, the tussle with Zivic, from whom he won the 147-pound crown a year ago, probably will be his last for the duration.

The word reached Freddie just before he went through four rounds of boxing against sparring partner Perry Lowe, Charley Williams and Bert Brydon. He scaled 148 and probably will weigh slightly less for the fight.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Behind the five-hit pitching of Frank Papish the Little Rock Travelers notched their twelfth straight victory tonight with a 1-0 win over the Memphis Chicks.

The game was a pitcher's duel throughout, with Weldon West letting the Travelers down with seven hits.

Little Rock got its sole and winning run when Howard Cantrell walked, went to third on Leroy Schalk's grounder to second and scored on a single by Fred Hancock.

Wade To Juggle Lineup for 2d Tilt

DENVER, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Major Wallace Wade said today he probably would shake up the starting lineup of his Western Army All-Stars for their contest with the Chicago Cardinals in Denver University stadium Sunday.

He led off in the inaugural engagement with the Washington Redskins at Los Angeles Sunday with an All-Dixie eleven made up of eight former Texas A. & M. performers and one each from Texas, Florida and Vanderbilt.

"We'll make some changes from that lineup, I'm sure," the gray-haired artilleryman said, "but we aren't sure yet what they'll be. Probably be a couple more days before we can announce who'll start."

Saint Paul Likely To Lose Franchise

ST. PAUL, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Lou McKenna, general manager of the St. Paul Baseball Club, announced today the club will sell all of its players piecemeal and then let the franchise revert to the American Association.

What disposition will be made of the club, plagued by mounting debt and lack of attendance, would then be in the hands of the association directors. The team has been in last place many weeks.

Omaha and Wichita are known to be interested in the franchise, but whether the association would permit a shift in the lineup of teams that has stood intact since organization of the league in 1902, except for a short span when Toledo was moved to Cleveland, is a question.

Milwaukee Star Shoots Self in Toe

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Hal Peck, hard-hitting outfielder of the Milwaukee American Association Baseball Club, was wounded in the great toe of his left foot today in the accidental discharge of his shotgun while hunting at his home near here.

Attendants at Waukesha hospital, where he was taken for removal of half a dozen pellets from his foot, said he was in no danger of losing his leg, but would be unable to play for the balance of the season.

Loss of Peck's services was a blow to the Brewers, engaged in a stretch fight for the Association pennant.

A BIT YOUNG.

Here's one reason baseball scouts go nuts: The Cincinnati Reds recently received a letter from a Kentucky village telling of the feats of a local 16-year-old who was hitting .832 and had belted 20 homers in 14 games. A scout was dispatched immediately. A day or so later he came back with a very red face to report that the hero's team averaged eight years in age and the opposition nine.

Halas, a brother of George Halas, owner-coach of the professional champion Chicago Bears, arrived on the campus today. He is expected to take over the freshman football reins later.

Bowlers Here Open Season Next Tuesday

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' City Bowling League held at the downtown alleys Tuesday, Miss Catherine Murray was elected president for the coming season; Miss Grace Butler, vice president; and Mrs. Lois Pendergrass, secretary. This league, made up of eight teams of about equal strength, is looking forward to its banner season. Their matches will start next Tuesday night at 7:30.

The Men's Amateur League, strengthened by the addition of the teams from Atlanta Journal, Atlanta Paper Company and others, will have their full quota of eight teams and will open Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. The early starting time, necessitated by gas and tire rationing so as to do away with a trip home after work, met with unanimous approval. J. T. Shaw, of the United Motors Service team, was retained as president of this league, and new officers for the coming season will be elected at a meeting scheduled for 6:30 opening night, September 8.

Additional meetings of the Industrial League on Wednesday and the Merchants' and Dixie leagues on Friday night of this week will complete the formation of the leagues rolling their matches at the downtown alleys this season.

Dawson, Forsyth Clubs Back Federation, Arnall

Rabun County Farmers and Sportsmen Also Join Campaign as Lumpkin Group Organizes Today.

By JOHN MARTIN.

Sportsmen of Forsyth, Dawson and Rabun counties are tired of it, too. They're tired of the Governor and his amalgamated syndicate of garbage distributors that has littered the state in a desperate, last-gasp effort to give them four more years of anticonservancy.

The hunters, fishermen and farmers of these hitherto Tamagone strongholds have cast their lot with the Georgia Wildlife Federation, a strictly anti-administration organization of over 40,000 members. The fellows who are interested in increasing game and fish and thus improving hunting and fishing conditions have gone on record as favoring the Federation's program, which of course, has as its first step the election of Ellis Arnall.

President Royston Ingram, speaking for the Forsyth County Conservation Club, yesterday notified the Federation that it could "count us in on the Federation's campaign." And President Lee Anderson, of the Dawson County Club, sent the identical message, adding: "We're for the Federation and Arnall."

Sale of Federation tags was begun yesterday in Clayton and Rabun, where the club will be reorganized. Paul Green is acting president and Edwin Wood secretary. In Dahlonega, the Lumpkin County Conservation Club will be organized today as a unit of the state group.

The DeKalb County Club made plans for a big push on election day last night at a meeting in the Chandler hotel. This club also announced plans for a field trial as its first project. The trial will be held this month or early in October.

The Stephens County Club met Wednesday night and yesterday conducted a tag-selling campaign in and around Toccoa. On Monday, Lee county will complete organization, and word from Leesburg is that a large group is prepared for action. Calhoun county, under Hugh Shackelford and Joe A. Meyer, have over 200 members and Clinch had 80 paid members last week and was gunning for 200.

In all sections of the state members of the Federation are looking to Wednesday, September 9, when they will go to the polls with a common understanding of the common cause that faces them. They will do their part in the election of a new Governor who has pledged himself to the interests of the man behind the gun and the fishing pole.

Terror, Pilot Face Kennedy, Roche Tonight

Roche, Parker Win Matches; Hart Is Beaten

A number of questions which have been causing rabid wrestling fans to lose sleep should be answered to the satisfaction of all concerned tonight at the city auditorium.

What sort of wrestler is the Terror's big manager, who has been helping the Golden dreadnaught win most of his 51 consecutive triumphs? And what kind of a job will the Terror do if his manager is beaten and put to rout and he is left alone to carry on?

Jack Kennedy has promised Roche he will take care of the manager tonight, leaving the giant job of pinning the Terror to the plucky and skillful Roche who always has been at his best when the going was toughest.

Roche and Kennedy form one of the most effective teams in wrestling. Tonight's brawl should be a thriller from start to finish.

All the action and excitement will not be supplied by the team match, however. Cowboy Luttrell, beaten by the Terror but still untamed, takes on Ronnie Etchinson in one of the supporting matches.

Habe Zaharias, crowd-baiting Greek, tackles Rudy Strongberg in what should be quite a battle.

Four of tonight's principals, the Terror, Zaharias, Kennedy and Roche are unbeaten in matches here this year. The Terror has never been beaten.

All service men will be admitted free. The show starts at 8:30.

Jones Protests Weight Loads On Whirlaway

Trainer Hints Leading Money Winner May Be Retired.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(P)—The first hint that Whirlaway might be retired, even while he's still picking up those fancy paychecks regularly, came from Trainer Ben Jones today in a protest against track handicappers who hanker to find out how much weight Whirlaway can carry before his back breaks.

Plain Ben, weighed in with the tip-off as he and Mr. Big Tail packed their bags and left for a 10-day New England trip, which has the double purpose of "getting away from it all" and winning the $25,000 Narragansett special a week from Saturday.

"If handicappers keep on piling pounds on Whirlaway's back," Ben said flatly in talking about the 134-pound load the colt has been assigned for one forthcoming race, "I'm not going to run him here or anywhere else again. I'm not going to take any chances of having him break down."

This is an old beef of horsemen, but when the Missouri magician steps up with his protest, you get the idea that he really has something there, especially since competition, condition and one of the toughest campaigns any horse has ever undergone have failed to take any of the dynamite from Whirlaway's legs. And it's not that he's afraid racing's all-time high money winner can't carry weight. Jones points out, because the colt already has packed up to 132 pounds.

"But," plain Ben went on, "after years of working to develop a good horse, you finally get one, and then the handicappers try to knock him down. I've never beefed before, but they're asking Whirlaway to carry 134 in the Aqueduct handicap Monday, which is just what he's got to do."

Ben's partner, who has been a steady sprinter since Rosebud, 10 years and the others all the way to 35. That's why we've passed up."

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(P)—Pauline Betz, of Los Angeles, reached the semi-finals of the National Women's Tennis championships at Forest Hills today with a blistering 6-0, 6-0 victory over 15-year-old Shirley Fry, of Akron, Ohio.

Margaret Osborne, of San Francisco, seeded third, survived a torrid first set to defeat Doris Hart, of Miami, 7-5, 6-0, and qualify to meet Miss Betz in the semi-finals.

Pancho Segura, of Ecuador, the top seeded foreign star, reached the men's semi-finals with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Billy Talbert, of Cincinnati, fourth seeded American entrant. Talbert played disappointing tennis, his lack of control practically presenting the match to Segura.

In another men's quarter-final, Frank Parker, of Los Angeles, overwhelmed Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, the national clay court champion, 6-0, 6-0, 6-4. Parker and Segura will clash in one of the semi-finals Saturday.

It was a case of Parker being far too steady for his left-handed opponent. In the fourth set Parker let up obviously to give the crowd a run for its money.

Wagon Is Transferred To Boys' High School

Shirley Watkins Named Head Coach at Commercial; Ex-Typist Mentor To Tutor Purple Line.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

There'll be some changes made seems to be the order of the day, and Atlanta's city school authorities made a couple yesterday which will assure prep football hopefuls at two high schools expert tutoring.

Henry Wagon, former star University of Georgia griddier who has been assistant football coach and head baseball mentor at Commercial High since 1938, has been transferred to Boys' High as a physical education teacher, and Shirley Watkins, ex-Vanderbilt athlete who did graduate work at Peabody, will become a teacher and head coach of all athletics at Commercial High, it was announced by H. Reid Hunter, assisting superintendent of city schools. The transfers become effective today.

SUCCEEDED GODWIN.
Wagon, who was named head football coach at Commercial High after Rufus Godwin joined one of Uncle Sam's branches of the service recently, will handle the line coaching duties for Coach Shorty Doyal's Purple Hurricane which, technically, opens the season a week from today against the Typists, whom Wagon will turn over to Coach Watkins today.

The popular and affable Wagon was a star end for the Bulldogs in the middle 1930's and taught school at Athens, Savannah and Gainesville before taking over his duties at the Pryor Street school. He is highly respected and liked by coaches, pupils and athletes alike and his coming to Boys' High doubtless will be heralded with glee by all connected with the Purple Hurricane. Henry succeeds Bill Orgain, now in the Army, as line coach at the Parkway Drive institution.

WATKINS OUTSTANDING.
Watkins, who graduated from Vandy in 1936, has done a remarkable job as head of the physical education department at Maddox Junior High since the fall of the same year. (Maddox is the school which burned to the ground recently and will not be in operation this year.)

The new Typist coach, who will absorb most of the duties which formerly rested on the shoulders of Godwin and Wagon, comes to Commercial with a record of fine accomplishments among Atlanta's youngsters. He not only has done bang-up work at Maddox, but has done a prominently outstanding job in aiding physical direction at the Atlanta Boys' Club.

Vol Star Quits; Will Help Coach
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 3.—(P)—Tennessee's Volunteers lost a football tailback prospect to gain a coach today with the announcement that Bernard (Bunzy) O'Neill, star basketball guard and baseball pitcher, had been added to the coaching staff.

O'Neill, whose home is in Pittsburgh, will tutor freshmen basketball and assist with football coaching.

Eligible for another year of football, the Tennessee senior decided against playing because of an ailing knee traceable to a football injury early in his college career.

Oliver Tournay Qualifying To Start Saturday

Women's Division To Be Added Attraction at Valdosta.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 3.—(P)—The Jack Oliver tournament, to be played here over the weekend, will be a bigger event than ever in two respects—competition for women and a wider geographic representation by the entrance of soldiers.

The annual event, renamed last year in honor of the father of the famous golfing Oliver, is expected to draw several players from near-by Moody Field to compete with a practically normal aggregation of Georgia and Florida golfers.

The women's division was added to broaden the interest in the tournament, and the new attraction is expected to enlist a number of state's better known links women.

Qualifying play will take place Saturday, match play starting Sunday and continuing through to the finals on Labor Day.

The list of entries has not been completed, but Bill Goodloe Sr., in charge of the tournament, predicts a list containing many of the best known players from Georgia and Florida, together with a heavy entry of local talent.

Sinkwich To Handle Punting for Bulldogs

By F. M. WILLIAMS.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 3.—Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia's newly elected captain, is used to being a busy man when the Bulldogs engage a football foe, but this season the fiery All-American is going to be cast in a couple of new roles.

It looks now as though the Ohio flash will have to do the punting for the Bulldogs when he's in the game, and, in addition, Coach Wallace Butts has definitely decided to use his star as a part-time fullback.

Sinkwich has shown more consistency in punting drills to date than have Charley Trippi, Jim Todd, Ryals Lee and Sonny Lloyd, the other men who are expected to be cast in that role.

Previously, Frankie's kicking duties have consisted of a few quick kicks and one or two punts per season, with Cliff Kinsey, the graduated blocking back, handling a majority of the punting assignments. So far, none of the kickers have been impressive. Sinkwich is the best of the lot.

While Sinkwich is destined to handle Kinsey's kicking duties, Joe Polak, a rugged junior who understood the "iron man" last season, seems to have the inside track for blocking back.

Polak has determined opposition in Ken Keuper and Walter McGuire, the former a transplanted fullback, and he'll have to continue his performances to keep the job. One thing in his favor is his fine defensive play. For, without a doubt, jolting Joe is the best tackler among the backs. Coach Butts held a comparatively light pair of workouts today, concentrating on timing and blocking. He is prepared to send his charges through a regular scrimmage Friday afternoon.

Harry Kuniak, first string guard last season, was called to his home in Atlanta today because of the serious illness of his mother.

How long he will miss practice sessions depends upon his mother's health, of course, but if he is required to stay in Atlanta for several days it will be a blow to the Bulldogs, because he will not have time to get in shape before the Kentucky game on September 19.

LEADING JOCKEY.
Johnny Adams, the nation's leading jockey in 1937 and runner-up to Don Meek in 1941, is making a strong bid for the championship he missed last year by 17 winning mounts. The 27-year-old Kansas-born rider had six winners and two seconds on yesterday's eight-race program at Thistledown, bringing his total for the year to 150. The present leader, Eric Guerin, has booted home 161 winners.

Fruit Desserts

To provide desserts with a minimum of sugar and a maximum of health protection and at the same time be co-operative with the "Save for Victory" campaign, turn often to fresh fruits. These seven fruit desserts are attractive and satisfying and use very little sugar.

1. Select small, perfect clusters of seedless grapes. Wash and drain them thoroughly and let chill for a couple of hours in the refrigerator. Beat the whites of 2 eggs until almost stiff. Dip each cluster of grapes into the beaten egg whites, then sift a little powdered or granulated sugar over them. Chill again before serving—they will have a frosted appearance that will make them very popular.
2. Peel 6 or 8 very ripe peaches and mash them with a fork or rub them through a coarse strainer. Mix at once with 1-2 cup fine graham cracker crumbs and 1-2 cup cream whipped stiff. Flavor with 1 tablespoon sherry and pile into cold sherbet glasses. Garnish with a fresh marshmallow cut in quarters and arrange like a flower. Chill before serving.
3. Peel ripe pears and cut in thin lengthwise slices, removing the core. Cover immediately with canned pineapple juice or with orange juice and sprinkle with minced candied ginger. Chill and serve in glass serving dishes.
4. Peel ripe pears and leave them whole. Spread immediately with cream cheese whipped to a thick cream and thinned with a little cream. Cut seedless grapes in half and press them close together all over the pears. Chill and serve with a sauce made by mixing orange marmalade with a little hot water to make of a consistency to pour.
5. Mix 1 package of orange flavored gelatin with 1-2 cups hot water and stir until dissolved. When cold, stir in 1 cup mashed fresh, peeled plums and 1 tablespoon sherry. Cool until beginning to thicken, then pour into a baked pie shell. Chill and when firm cover with a thick layer of whipped, slightly sweetened cream.
6. Peel large, perfect, ripe peaches, cut in half and remove the pits. Drop into a syrup made by cooking 1-2 cup syrup with 1-2 cup water for 5 minutes. Simmer until the fruit is tender, and then chill it. Cut round slices of sponge or pound cake and place half a peach, cut side up, on each round. Fill the peach with sugared berries and top with whipped cream.
7. Cut small balls of ripe cantaloupe and mix with diced oranges. Fill sherbet cups two-thirds full with the fruit and sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar. Just before serving, fill with chilled gingerale.

Sugar Substitutes

For 1 cup granulated sugar use: Honey, 3-4 cup and reduce liquid slightly. Molasses, 1½ cups and reduce liquid slightly. Sorghum, 1½ cups and reduce liquid slightly. Syrup, corn, light or dark, 2 cups, and reduce liquid slightly; maple, 1-2 cups and reduce liquid slightly.

When substituting honey for the sugar called for in a recipe reduce the liquid 3-4 tablespoons for each cup of honey used; in using the syrups and molasses, reduce liquid about 1-4 cup.

Measuring syrups for sugar substitution: All syrups and honey must be carefully and slowly measured. Syrup cannot be poured into a spoon and dropped into the mixing bowl one spoonful after another because part of the syrup will cling to the spoon each time. Measure melted fat in the spoon or cup first, then measure the syrup; the syrup will not stick to a greased surface.

Thrifty Oven Dinner

Here's a dinner that is streamlined to meet the wartime need for thrift and to take out that extra time you need for war work. The tomatoes are stuffed with meat, but the meat stuffing makes the meat go further. The tomatoes and pie are baked in the oven at the same time, saving fuel, and the salad is made the day before, and left in the refrigerator ready to pop out at serving time. This is the way the dinner comes onto the table with the greatest economy of time and motion. But first, the menu is:

Meat-Stuffed Baked Tomatoes
Cucumber Jelly Salad
Bread
Lattice Top Peach Pie (or Apple)
Coffee, Tea or Milk

Cucumber Jelly Salad.

2 cups grated cucumber
Salt and paprika
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon salad oil
1 teaspoon plain gelatin
2 teaspoons cold water
6 walnut halves, unbroken
Mayonnaise
Lettuce or watercress

Peel cucumbers and grate 2 cups; season with salt, paprika and the salad oil. Soften gelatin in cold water, then heat over hot water until dissolved, but do not boil. Cool and add to cucumbers. In the bottom of each individual mold place a walnut meat, then fill with cucumber mixture. Chill until ready to serve. Then turn out on crisp salad leaves and serve with mayonnaise.

Meat-Stuffed Tomatoes.

Select 6 large, firm tomatoes and scoop out centers. Save centers

insides of tomatoes with salt and

1-2 pound ground beef with 1-2 cup dry bread crumbs, 1-4 cup chopped celery, 1-4 cup chopped green pepper and 1-3 cup water.

Add salt and pepper to taste. Stuff

criss-cross tops with strips of bacon.

Lattice-Top Peach Pie.

Pastry: 1-2 cups flour

3-4 teaspoon salt

1-3 cup shortening (6 tablespoons)

Ice water, about 3 tablespoons

shortening and cut in with pastry blender or two knives until particles are about the size of navy

a fork. When dough will hold together, make half of it into a ball and roll out on floured board.

Transfer it to a pie plate without stretching; fit it snugly, and trim.

Filling: 4 cups ripe peaches,

peeled and sliced

1 cup syrup

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1-4 teaspoon nutmeg

1-8 teaspoon salt

1-4 teaspoon cinnamon

1 teaspoon lemon juice

and sprinkle remaining ingre-

on and bake 10 minutes at 450 degrees, then lower heat to 350, put

This dinner can be ready to serve in little more than an hour after you go into the kitchen.

How About a Victory Picnic For Celebrating Labor Day?

Let's celebrate Labor Day with a Victory picnic. What's a Victory picnic? It's a joyous event, one that completely satisfies a real American's heart, mind and appetite, because it is a picnic with wartime realities. A victory picnic doesn't allow any expenditure of gas, oil or tires, nor does the menu offer choice thick steaks and chops. Then, what do you do? Simply this, the family, neighbors or friends get together and have the picnic in somebody's backyard, or everybody walks to a nearby park or wood. For food you stick to simple menus that provide balance and a filling quality, and yet do not draw upon our storage and transportation facilities which already are overtaxed to feed our widely scattered armed forces and our Allies.

Vegetables, fruits, cheese and chicken are foods that we've plenty of right now, and these are the foods that should have strongest emphasis in the victory picnic menu. To be more specific we'll get on with menus and recipes that will make your victory picnic a big success:

- MENU NO. 1.
Fried Chicken
Potato Salad, Hot or Cold
Crisp Raw Carrots Green Onions
Sweet Pickles
Enriched Bread Spread with Butter or Vitamin-Enriched Margarine
Apple Sauce Cookies
Lemonade
- MENU NO. 2.
Baked Beans
Vegetable Salad Bowl
Assorted Cheese Sandwiches
Chocolate Cake Fresh Fruit
Lemonade
- MENU NO. 3.
Baked Beans Topped With Bacon Strips
Hot, Spicy Cole Slaw
Assorted Cheese and Fruit, Stewed or Fresh Rolls and Butter
Apple Pie and Lemonade

If you have an outdoor stove and want to cook hamburgers try serving a piping hot hamburger on a toasted, soft, buttered roll with a thin slice of American cheese added. Or cook fresh ears of corn in a big kettle and serve it with cheese and lettuce sandwiches. Or split large frankfurters and place a sliver of cheese in each one, wrap each in bacon, fasten with a toothpick and broil until the cheese is slightly melted, the frankfurter hot and bacon cooked. Suppose the weather is bad and the tramp to the park cannot be made. Don't let weather spoil your picnic; spread the lunch on the porch, and if you choose, one large hot platter may be brought out from your own kitchen stove. Such a platter might be the one pictured, made this way:

Baked Bean Platter.
1-2 pound ground beef
Salt and pepper
1 medium-sized jar baked beans
2 cups cooked carrots
Season meat, form into small balls and brown in hot fat. Then add beans and carrots and heat well. Serve on warm platter. With this serve a big bowlful of mixed green vegetables, hard rolls and a fruit drink.

Vegetable Salad Bowl.
(Serving 12.)
Wash and crisp 1 large head of lettuce and cut it coarsely. Cook 2 pounds fresh, shelled lima beans and cool them. Cook 2 large ears of corn or three medium sized ears and cool them. Dice 2-1/2 cups cold potatoes and shred 1 small green pepper. Cut the corn from the cobs and mix lightly with the cooled lima beans, the potatoes, pepper and 1 tablespoon minced onion. Add 1-3 cup well seasoned French dressing and let marinate for at least 30 minutes. Then drain. Rub a large salad bowl with a cut nub of garlic, fill one-third full of the vegetable mixture, sprinkle with 1-2 cups thinly sliced celery. Just before serving, add 1-2 cup well seasoned French dressing, mix lightly, garnish with a few whole lettuce leaves and plenty of small segments of ripe tomatoes.

Soft Ginger Cookies.
(Makes 3 dozen.)
2-3 cup fat
1-2 cup brown sugar (if possible)
2 eggs, beaten
1-2 cup molasses (if brown sugar not available use 1 cup molasses)
1-2 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-4 teaspoon cloves
1-4 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup chopped raisins
1-2 cup chopped nut meats (optional)
2-1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
Cream fat and sugar, add remaining ingredients, the spices sifted with flour, the raisins and nut meats dredged in a little of the flour. Chill dough, then drop small pieces onto a greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven 12 minutes.

Lemonade Without Sugar.
Lemonade or other fruit drinks for the picnic need not make inroads on your sugar bowl. Mix 3 cups white corn syrup with 5 cups water, heat to boiling point and boil gently 10 minutes. Cool, and use to sweeten lemonade or other drinks.

Take a tip from those who know the easiest way of getting good food and enough of it on an outing. Beans are one of the most popular foods with Boy Scouts. Left to right, Odell Shipman, Jimmy Bailey and Pat Bethea are seen inspecting the new jars of baked beans and getting ready to sample them.

Add nuts and dates to flour mixture, then gradually add liquid mixture to dry ingredients and blend well. Bake in greased loaf pan in 350-degree oven one hour, or until done. ## Crawford Man Is Indicted in Bank Shortage

Harvard Vance Hopkins Faces U. S. Charges in $6,000 Case.

Indictment of Harvard Vance Hopkins, former cashier of the Commercial Bank at Crawford, Ga., by a federal grand jury at Macon was announced yesterday by F. L. Hammack, agent in charge of the local office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hopkins is charged with violation of the national banking act in that he "unlawfully, willfully and knowingly embezzled, abstracted and willfully misapplied the sum of $6,000 with the intent to injure and defraud" the bank.

The Commercial Bank at Crawford is a state bank but is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Hopkins, 30, began work for the bank about June 1, 1931, as book-keeper and continued advancing in position until he became cashier January 1, 1942. On June 29, Hammack said, it was discovered the books of the bank were out of balance $6,000 and upon investigation and questioning by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Hopkins admitted his responsibility for the shortage, stating that since about 1932 he had been taking cash and credits from the bank in an illegal manner.

Examination of the books of the bank disclosed that Hopkins had made numerous fictitious deposits to his own personal account, Hammack said. It was also disclosed that in order to cover up his various small shortages, Hopkins had used several accounts of customers of the bank by arbitrarily reducing the balances and by making fictitious charges against those accounts.

Hopkins was arrested at his home in Crawford, Ga., on Sept. 3, and is being held in the Macon jail.

2 Airmen Killed Near Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Two airmen were killed when their plane crashed in the marsh on Middlemarsh Island near here early this morning.

The cause of the crash, which took the lives of the pilot, Lieutenant Justin J. Haley, and the gunner, Sergeant Roger F. Fish, has not been determined.

The wreckage of the plane was sighted by a searching plane which had been sent out from Hunter Field after the plane was reported missing about 9:30 o'clock this morning. Crash boat crews raced to the spot where the wreck had been sighted, but its position was so inaccessible that the bodies of the two men could not be removed until this afternoon at high tide.

Lieutenant Justin's nearest relative is his mother, Mrs. John J. Haley, of Winthrop, Mass.

Sergeant Fish was 27, and was a native of Knoxville, Pa. His nearest relative is Mrs. Cecil Fish, of Knoxville, Pa.

Speeding Drivers Warned at Sparta

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 3.—The local tire rationing board is warning owners of lumber trucks, taxicabs and other vehicles, who are racing up and down the highways at high speed that they will get no more tires if they keep up the practice. Much trouble has been experienced with fast drivers and the board has made them understand they will approve no more applications for new tires or recaps, if they do not take care of them.

It is reported that several persons have received this warning and the tire inspectors are keeping a strict watch for other violators as tire quotas are slashed more and more.

Motorists Hit For Absence Of Sticker

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Augusta motorists are about to become sticklers for stickers.

A recorder's court judge listened to 53 excuses, shook his head 53 times and collected $5 and costs from motorists who were shy one sticker. They had a gasoline sticker and a federal auto stamp tax but were without a sticker showing they had applied for semi-annual city tests of automobile brakes within the required time limit.

A total of 229 cases were made against motorists when the time limit expired and officers were continuing to bring in large batches of stubs to tickets given motorists who were without brake stickers.

Judge Berry Ellison collected a total of $441 in fines and costs on the first day's business.

Defendants presented a wide variety of excuses—"I've been sick; my car was in the shop; I was on my vacation; the rain kept me away," etc., but none was accepted.

U. S. Armored Force Increased

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(P)—An increase of more than a third in the size of the Army's armored force was disclosed today by Secretary Stimson with the crisp explanation that "our views have very greatly expanded since the war began."

Four more tank divisions have been organized or ordered formed, to give the growing land forces a total of 14 such units.

Whether further expansion is planned was left unsaid at the war secretary's press conference. The German Army has been credited with as many as 30 Panzer divisions, of which a number were believed organized last winter for resumption of the drive to conquer Russia.

Creation of a third armored corps and of the 12th Corps of infantry troops was announced at the same time. A corps is composed of two or more divisions.

To cope with a mounting national shortage of manpower, Stimson announced that the War Department intended to rely heavily on women war workers in Army arsenals, depots and for office jobs.

"Already, about 300,000 women are employed in War Department activities, and as many more can be absorbed," he said. "As far as practicable, women will be employed in preference to men of war service age or capabilities."

Hard pressed for mechanics and other technicians the Army is trying to recruit more than 90,000 trained men, but is "most careful" not to raid industry, the secretary said. Men are not accepted unless they have been cleared by their local draft boards. The drive is to end by October 15 when Army schools are expected to supply the deficiencies.

Of the new armored divisions, the 11th already has been organized at Camp Polk, La., commanded by Major General Edward H. Brooks. The 12th is being organized at Camp Campbell, Ky., by Major General Carlos Brewer, the 13th will be formed at Camp Beale, Marysville, Cal., under Brigadier General John B. ## U. S. Building Big Camp in Belgian Congo

Further Troop Arrivals Expected in Center of Jungle.

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo, Aug. 30.—(Delayed)—(P)—American Army technical forces arrived today at this Belgian Congo capital and started immediately to build a big camp named for President Roosevelt, apparently in preparation for further troop arrivals.

Veterans of the last war planned a big reception for the Americans to be held on September 5. (The Belgian government news agency announced Wednesday in London that American troops had arrived in the Belgian Congo, which is near the center of Africa athwart the Allied supply route across the continent to Egypt. There was no indication of the size or nature of the force.)

A land of gold, diamonds and steaming jungles, the Belgian Congo straddles the equator in the heart of Africa and its capital, Leopoldville, is the eastern terminus of a transatlantic plane route from Miami, Fla.

The black colony, with a population of 9,000,000 natives, is a third the size of the United States and nearly 80 times the size of Belgium proper. It has been under Belgian rule for 50 years.

Courtesy through the colony is the mighty, 3,000-mile-long Congo river, discovered by Henry M. Stanley, the explorer who made the historic search for Dr. David Livingstone in the 70's.

OPA Charges Violations of Meat Ceilings

115 Packers and Wholesalers Accused of 'Upgrading.'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(P)—The Office of Price Administration today alleged there had been widespread violations of price ceilings on beef and veal by upgrading or "plain and simple overcharging" and announced it was taking court action against some 115 meat packers and wholesale distributors.

At the same time OPA placed substantially the entire meat industry, except retailers, under licensing control. The order, effective September 6, provides for suspension of licenses in the event of violation of the price regulations.

Some of the injunction suits to compel compliance with the regulations were filed today and others will be filed soon in federal courts in 18 cities, it was stated.

OPA said it took the action after receipt of complaints from all parts of the country that some packers and wholesalers are "ignoring price regulations and palming off inferior cuts above OPA price ceilings."

The drive, an announcement said, resulted from a nation-wide investigation by OPA inspectors in co-operation with inspectors from the Agriculture Department.

Most of the cases, OPA said, involved upgrading, "although many are concerned as well with plain and simple overcharging." The packers and wholesalers, OPA added, also are being accused of issuing incorrect invoices or of failing to issue invoices as provided by regulations.

OPA described "upgrading" as stamping and selling meat of an inferior grade at prices established for higher grades. Under OPA regulations, all carcasses and wholesale cuts must be accurately stamped and sold at prices not exceeding the established maximum prices for the particular grade.

Defendants included the "Big Four" of the packing industry—Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Cudahy Packing Co., and Wilson & Co.

There was immediate reaction from some of the big packers. George A. Eastwood, Armour president, said in Chicago that grading "is a matter of judgment."

"It is an art rather than a science," he said, "and there can be honest differences of opinion. We haven't any intent to violate the OPA's grading rules and we are willing, if need be, to let the OPA grade our meat for us so that we can devote our time to conducting our essential business efficiently."

John Holmes, Swift president, said the suit "in so far as Swift & Company is concerned, is absolutely without merit."

Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of Wilson's board, said:

"We do not believe that Wilson & Company has violated any of the OPA regulations. We have made a conscientious effort to observe and comply with all the regulations issued that affect our business."

Canada Takes Rigid Control of Beef

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(P)—The wartime prices and trade board tonight assumed rigid control of the beef cattle trade in Canada, naming the government-owned Wartime Food Corporation as sole exporter of beef cattle in a new policy aimed at meeting the "acute" shortage which the board said now exists "across the whole country."

Under the compulsory tillage order, the Eire government has seized this year 116 farms in which the required acreage was not cultivated.

Raid Wardens Will Survey Atlanta Homes

Folk Meeting Standards Will Be Awarded 'V' Certificates.

Your air raid warden will be coming around during the last two weeks of this month to determine whether yours is a "V home." If it is, you will be presented an award of merit, a sticker for the window, proclaiming that "this is a V home."

Regional Civilian Defense Director Charles H. Murchison announced yesterday that in most cities of the southeast, the region's part in this nationwide survey will get under way about September 15 with plans calling for its completion by October 1.

The air raid warden will award the sticker-certificates to homes in his neighborhood which live up to five standards.

The first requires that you pledge that your home is following the instructions of the warden in preparing against air attacks and if you are willing the warden will inspect the precautions you have taken.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

For years America has been a contented cow with seven stomachs and every one full.

Now they say we are in for a bit of rationing. Say, we had that in 1917-18 and took it in our stride like a Scotchman in a free turnstile.

I remember we had meatless Mondays, heatless Tuesdays and other short-weighted holidays. But we came through like wool in a sweater factory and nobody the worse for it.

No man can pull in his belt without sticking out his jaw.

They both seem to work on one string.

will not be as strict as those in more vulnerable sections, Murchison explained, but generally they will check to see if you have made blackout preparations, have properly furnished a safety room, are prepared to fight fire bombs with sand and tools, have removed inflammable material, have at least one member of the family trained in first aid and if all members know what to do when a warning sounds.

To qualify on the other scores, you must be able to give an affirmative answer to these four questions: Does your home conserve food, clothing, transportation and health? Does your home salvage essential materials? Does your home refuse to spread rumors? Is your home buying war savings stamps and bonds regularly?

The Army and Navy in Georgia

Three times as many women in the seven southeastern states are to be recruited for duty in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps for the period ending November 1 as previously called for by the Army, the Fourth Service Command headquarters announced yesterday.

Volunteers were urged to keep their present jobs and maintain their normal modes of life after enrolling for they will not be called to duty in most cases for weeks or months.

In so far as possible, the Army will give WAAC reserves two or three weeks' advanced notice before ordering them to report to active duty.

DUMMY TARGET STRIKES BACK AT SOLDIER

After submitting to jabs and thrusts from Fort Benning's student soldiers for years, a dummy target at the Rifle and Heavy Weapons Officers' School finally struck back the other day.

While running in the "blitz course" out at the Furman road area recently, a student officer suddenly found a bayonet dummy lying in ambush, and started to attack. The dummy, incensed by the vicious butt-stroke he received, crawled rapidly away on his guide wire. The surprised officer relaxed his hold on his rifle, and the retreating dummy flipped the rifle over so that the point of the bayonet grazed the officer's leg.

A little chagrined, the soldier explained: "I never expected to meet such stiff opposition from a dummy."

Captain Stone has been assistant chief of the Signal Corps Branch, Fourth Service Command, with offices at Fort McPherson, succeeding Major John R. Jordan, who has been transferred.

A native of Manchester, N. H., Captain Stone was connected with a building material firm before he was inducted into federal service as a National Guard officer in February, 1941.

In addition to taking over his new duties Tuesday, Captain and Mrs. Stone still celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary.

Troops at Fort McPherson are being cautioned to take the greatest care to prevent the occurrence or spread of forest fires during the coming months.

Late summer and fall are "forest fire seasons" and all men are being ordered to be particularly careful while engaged in field exercises or maneuvers.

The preventive measures were urged for all troops over the nation in a directive from the office of General Brehon Somervell, commanding the Services of Supply.

Alabamian Held In Death of Mrs. Holmes

Atlantian Bludgeoned in Tennessee Cave; Son Relates Attack.

A man listed as Judge J. Gray, of Pisgah, Ala., has been arrested in connection with the bludgeoned death Wednesday night at Nickajack Cave, Tenn., of Mrs. Louise Holmes, 31, of Atlanta, Tennessee authorities reported yesterday.

Mrs. Holmes, found severely beaten a short distance within the historic cave near Shellmound, Tenn., died a short time after reaching a Chattanooga hospital. Her nine-year-old son, Jack, was under treatment for a skull fracture.

Sheriff C. F. Simmons, of Scottsboro, Ala., said Gray was being held on a fugitive warrant for investigation in the case. The man was arrested a few yards south of the Alabama line by Tennessee officers.

Gray denied any connection with the case and declined to return to Tennessee without formal extradition, Sheriff Simmons said. The sheriff added a search of Gray's suitcase revealed a pair of trousers, mudstained and spotted, which apparently had been worn a few hours previously.

Jack regained consciousness long enough to tell officers that he and his mother stopped at Shellmound Wednesday on their way to the home of a relative. He said a man approached them and offered to guide them through the cave while they were waiting.

When his mother refused to venture very deep into the cave, the youth said, the man attacked her with rocks, beating her into insensibility. He could not recall how he suffered his own injury.

Mrs. Holmes and her son Monday visited an Atlanta sister, Mrs. Paul Dissipine, of 478 Woodward avenue, S. E. She exhibited two large denomination war savings bonds, Mrs. Dissipine said, and told friends there that she was going to Chattanooga in search of work.

The body was taken yesterday to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ray, in Duluth, Ga., for funeral services and burial.

Waycross Physician Joins Medical Corps

Special to THE CONSTITUTION: WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 3.—Dr. Leo Smith, eye, ear, throat and nose specialist, of Waycross, left yesterday for West Palm Beach, Fla., to begin active duty with the United States armed forces, having been commissioned as a first lieutenant in the Medical Corps.

Dr. Smith has been engaged in practice in Waycross since April, 1937.

He graduated from the University of Georgia School of Medicine in 1932, and served his internship at the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad hospital in Waycross in 1932 and 1933. He then served in the Reserve Corps of the United States Army for 17 months, assigned to duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps. ## 30,000 More Acres Sought For Ft. Benning

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP) The government is planning to add 30,000 more acres of land to the near-by Fort Benning reservation, a condemnation suit filed in federal court indicated.

About 25,000 acres are in Chattahoochee county and 5,000 in Muscogee county. The reservation was expanded by approximately 50,000 acres in 1941.

Farmers will be given until October 1 to vacate the land so that crops may be gathered.

The suit is returnable December 1. Federal Land Bank officials will appraise the property and notify the owners. If they are not satisfied with the government offer, they can go to federal court in quest of a better price. Responses must be filed by December 1 in the Columbus division of federal court.

This addition would bring the total acreage to well over 100,000 for the Fort.

PEANUT CLOTH SUITS.

Suits of "peanut cloth" are predicted by the president of the National Peanut Council in London, who says it will be impossible to tell the difference between cloth made of peanuts and the best Scotch wool.

At Bolton, England, in 1779 a lad of 21, named Samuel Crompton, combined Wyatt's and Hargreave's spinning jennies and named his handiwork a "mule."

Girl Riveters Win Praise For Work at Cochran Field

MACON, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP) Half a dozen girl riveters in Cochran Air Field's sheet metal department have won the praise by the shop foreman for their aptitude.

The six have proven that women can help solve the problem of finding skilled labor for war production, F. E. Hennessey, the foreman, said. The girls are engaged in riveting work involving minor repairs of plane fuselage and wings.

Hennessey said they were showing skill and go about their work with care and caution. He also commends them for their initiative and eagerness to learn.

Three of the girls, Agnes Melvin, Margaret Melvin and Mary Mahoney, attended West Georgia College at Carrollton, where they had a course in metal construction. The others, Erin Luke, Caroline Hodges and Mildred James, are former telephone operators.

The young women attend two classes of instruction daily, during which they make a tour of the repair sections on the field learning names and functions of moving parts in plane motors and other parts of planes.

BOND QUOTA OVER SOLD.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 3.—Lowndes county's quota of war bonds for August was placed at $75,000 and Frank Rose, county chairman, announces that reports show the county purchased a total of $88,923.60, considerably exceeding the monthly quota.

Children Urged To Report for First Session

Will Facilitate Classification in Schools, Says Hunter.

All Atlanta school children were urged yesterday by Dr. H. Reid Hunter, assistant school superintendent, to attend the opening session of schools today so that registration, classification, and other routine can be gotten out of the way in order for regular classes to begin Tuesday.

School buildings will be open at 9:15 o'clock this morning, but elementary children will not have to report until 9:30 and high school students will report at 9:45 o'clock.

Schools were hampered greatly in their beginning work last year because of the polio epidemic and Dr. Hunter requested parents to co-operate by being sure all children attend the first sessions this year.

British Naval Fliers in Action On Desert Line

Airmen Inflict Heavy Casualties South of El Alamein.

By LARRY ALLEN

WITH THE BRITISH NAVY AIR FORCE IN THE EGYPTIAN DESERT, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Crack bomber pilots of the British navy, dumping scores of tons of bombs on Axis lines, have inflicted heavy casualties on Nazi troops and have smashed motor transport columns in raids lasting through last night to early today.

The naval airmen dropped high explosives principally in the zone south of El Alamein. Returning fliers said enemy troops and transport were so thick they could not miss and besides destroying many motorized vehicles they killed large numbers of troops.

"100 Per Cent Hits."

The naval commander in charge of these air operations said the bombers had "scored" practically 100 per cent hits in the three nights since the Nazis attacked.

"Last night our airmen started huge fires along the enemy's bulging southern line, causing great damage to tanks, motor transport and other vehicles to say nothing of causing heavy enemy casualties," he said.

"The enemy's advance apparently was halted at least yesterday, and last night they got a hell of a plastering from our bombers and heavier British bombing aircraft."

"Operations Successful."

"We have had no casualties and all operations have been most successful."

The naval air force has encountered some enemy fighter opposition but, the British said, not on a scale which was anticipated.

Part of this force's function has been to precede big formations of heavy bombers, illuminating targets for the hundreds of tons of bombs they dropped on and behind the enemy lines.

The British air officer commanding desert operations messaged the naval fliers today:

"By your efforts the enemy is getting no rest and is suffering heavily through your invaluable share in the most successful of air operations."

Ned Wayburn, 68, Producer, Dies

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Ned Wayburn, 68, theatrical producer who with Florenz Ziegfeld originated the idea of "glorifying the American girl" and who was responsible for the rise to stardom of many of today's big-name performers, died last night.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., Wayburn produced many of Ziegfeld's most successful editions of the Ziegfeld Follies.

Elks Schedule Regional Parley

Elks regional conference for Georgia-West will be held at the Elks home, East Point, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Roderick M. McDuffie, president, will outline the program of Grand Exalted Ruler Sullivan and the Georgia association to keep "Elkdom on the march in Georgia."

Exalted rulers and secretaries from Dalton, Rome, Cartersville, Atlanta, Gainesville, Athens, Newnan, Griffin, LaGrange, East Point, Buckhead, Decatur and Elberton will attend. Dr. J. F. Hines, of Dalton, and Louis J. O'Connell, of Augusta, district deputy grand exalted rulers, will be present.

Youth Is Sought In Robbery Case

A youth who reportedly robbed the Toddle House on Peachtree road of $75 Wednesday night was being sought yesterday by Fulton county detectives. According to the detectives, the youth asked C. D. Walker, manager of the Toddle House chain, for a job on Tuesday.

Walker, they said, not only gave him a job but a new suit of clothes. On Wednesday night, the new helper asked his fellow counter clerk to go across the street for a pack of cigarettes. The clerk said he returned just in time to see the new man depart in a tan coupe. Investigation showed $75 had disappeared from the cash box.
